

BILINGUAL. BORDERLESS.
BEAUTIFULLY QUEER.

2026.06.

言外 Between 之意 the Lines

语意交汇， 酷儿微光处，
边界失焦。

联合骄傲女性杂志
UPWOMXN'S ZINE

ABOUT

BETWEEN THE LINES

Between the Lines is a bilingual literary and arts zine by and for Chinese queer womxn—those living within, across, and beyond borders. It centers the stories of individuals who have long had to live, love, and resist in subtext—navigating social stigma, political censorship, and cultural marginalization both in their homelands and diasporas. It explores the liminal geographies that they often inhabit. It holds space for the words, images, and ideas that survive between the lines.

This project is published by United Proud Womxn, a nonprofit organization committed to empowering sexual minority womxn.

关于 《言外之意》

《言外之意》是一本由华人酷儿女性主创的双语文学与艺术杂志，立足边界，写在缝隙，讲述那些不被允许直说的故事。它由非营利组织联合骄傲女性发起，致力于支持性少数女性的表达与自主。

许多声音被迫低语，被遮蔽、被删改，被夹在词与词之间的空白中。我们倾听它们，也愿让它们发出回响。

这里是属于她们的语言地带，是在沉默与否定之外，继续存在、思考与热爱的空间。

ABOUT UNITED PROUD WOMXN

United Proud Womxn is a non-profit organization dedicated to empowering sexual minority womxn by creating safe, brave, collaborative, and creative spaces to grow as individuals, connect with community, and organize collective actions for inclusive social change.

关于联合骄傲女性

联合骄傲女性是一个非营利组织。它的主要目标是为多元化群体女孩提供安全、勇敢、协作和创造性的空间，使她们作为个人成长，与社区成员联系，并组织集体行动，推动包容性社会变革。

BEHIND THE “ZINES” “志”作幕后

Editor-in-Chief & Designer

主编与设计:

Joyce Wang

Editors & Translators

编辑与翻译:

青豆, Jade, 睿润, 典典, Emie

Website Developer

网站开发:

Shelley Yang

Special Shoutout:

特别感谢:

UPW 推推拉拉写作小组

TABLE OF CONTENTS 目录

FICTION 虚构文学

- Silver | 浮光... 1
《东亚》节选 | 劳儿... 4
可以吃的女人 | 阿南西... 13
First Love | Yimin Huang... 16
The Unsent Flowers | 浮光... 25
恶心 | 阿南西... 31
光，镜头，和她 | Aurora Shadowbook ... 38
美杜莎在大笑 | 狸嵬 ... 43

NON-FICTION 纪实文学

- 47 ... 20240207 | 安祀夕
50 ... Bra | 匿名
52 ... 女同性恋的再来一次 | 许卉 Hui Xu
56 ... 《成为女性的权利》| Sho

POETRY 诗歌

- Pride Flags | Chloe W. ... 58
Manzana de Agua | Chloe W. ... 59
Pluerry, California | Chloe W. ... 60
All the things I wish I could tell you |
Seiki Ling... 61
诗 | 萝卜 ... 63
东风 | 赵北一... 65
蛋 | 赵北一 ... 67
飞越北极 | 赵北一... 68
玻璃 | 姬械芯... 69
母亲的骨头 | 萧清 ... 70
离宇宙更近的地方 | 萧清... 71
她说过 | "Ida" Yida Zhou ... 73

VISUAL ART 视觉艺术

- 75 ... 无题 | CC Li
76 ... what we hold in breaths released |
Joyce Wang
78 ... 无题 | CC Li
80 ... 自然的流动 | Sasha
81 ... 影的低语 | Sasha
82 ... Untitled | ASTROJOKE
83 ... No injection | ASTROJOKE
84 ... 水下丛林 | Chloe W.
86 ... Eden | Chloe W.
87 ... Breasts Love | "Ida" Yida Zhou
88 ... 视力表 | Zhang Xun
89 ... 拼贴诗 | 笠微

Fiction

虚构文学

|                                 |    |
|---------------------------------|----|
| Silver   浮光...                  | 1  |
| 《东亚》节选   劳儿...                  | 4  |
| 可以吃的女人   阿南西...                 | 13 |
| First Love   Yimin Huang...     | 16 |
| The Unsent Flowers   浮光...      | 25 |
| 恶心   阿南西...                     | 31 |
| 光，镜头，和她   Aurora Shadowbook ... | 38 |
| 美杜莎在大笑   狸嵬 ...                 | 43 |

Silver

By 浮光

First perspective: The filling

I am a silver filling lodged in the penultimate tooth on her right side.

Once I believed I was an inert object — a replacement embedded in the mouth, a promise of repair. But the truth unfolded like a seam being pulled: I am a secret door. She licks me, sucks at me, rubs against me — not for cleanliness, not for comfort. She seeks me out again and again to confirm my presence, to acknowledge me as the only foreign thing in her body.

Her tongue always grazes me, and then, as if teasing, returns. One lick, two licks. I tremble and shed the tiniest flecks of silver ions; in exchange I earn her low, pleased sigh. The sound arrives warm and wet, like a thunderstorm of sparklers exploding from her throat, sweeping across the whole cavity and covering every inch of me. Sometimes she coughs — she tells herself it's an aphthous ulcer, but the truth is I ache to be touched and, in that wanting, I tear a sliver of her mucosa. Mucosa does not always bleed, so when a bead of blood settles across my surface I savor it like a warm current after an underwater volcano eruption, engulfing me without metallic sting or burning, simply warm and persistent, swallowing me whole. Saliva, by contrast, is a detached lodger — it slides and tugs around me, preoccupied with its own shape. I hate its indolence, its lazy rhythm — like a lover who only knows how to pretend. So I hurry to dissolve more silver into the blood, to let myself expand, slow and invasive, within her.

After a while I learned to seduce her tongue at precise moments — when she speaks, when she swallows, in the hiccup of her breath. I changed shape. No longer a smooth patch, I sprouted gears, scales, tiny seams. I sit between her teeth, yet I turn and pull; when her mouth is shut I grind gently at the root of her tongue, waiting for her to gift me a suppressed yet pleasurable coda.

“Are you sure you want this oral material removed?” a stranger’s voice asked.

“Mm.” The girl’s voice was vague and thin; she had grown used to slurred syllables and breaths threaded with quiet sobs.

I ravenously sent silver particles into every acre of her mouth. She seemed to notice something wrong; she straightened her throat and tried to stave off the rising tide of saliva that threatened to sink deeper into her body. But she could not stop me. I pierced through her soft palate, grazed the edge of her tonsils, gripped the terminals of the autonomic nerves. Old gods fell; new ones took the throne.

A rotation, and the ceiling swung nearer and farther around me.

I tipped the head, opened the mouth, and pointed toward the big wad of cotton-filling the girl's mouth. The dentist hesitated, her puzzled glance flicking across my face, then, with forceps, removed the saliva-soaked cotton.

"I changed my mind. Don't take it out." I said it quickly, stood, and shrugged on my coat. "Please still send the bill to me — sorry for the trouble."

The dentist did not have time to reconfirm. I left the clinic. A faint sting bit the tip of my tongue; I shoved my tongue hard against the sore spot twice, then, as if consoling, licked it lightly and let the saliva flow in a frenzy, pouring down my throat, into the depths of her body. A queer itch and contraction rose from her abdomen. I licked the newly born silver surface and listened, quietly, as it gave out its first echo.

---

Second perspective

At first I didn't think that the filled tooth felt wrong; or rather, I felt a small strangeness and dismissed it as routine aftercare. I didn't make much of that minor oddity.

It took days for me to admit to myself that I liked it. I liked that wrongness — that illogical presence that had no place in my body. It made me realize my body was not a closed system: it could be breached, entered, altered.

I began to touch it on purpose. When I spoke I would slow the tip of my tongue across it; when I ate I avoided that side so the filling could bob there more prominently in my saliva. It was a hook that pulled me out of numb routine and suspended me on a deeper pleasure.

I brushed my teeth; foamy bubbles pooled at the silver's edge. It didn't recoil — it seemed to enjoy it. Every time the bristles grazed it, it writhed a little, as if asking for a kiss. I smiled, tilted my head, spat out the foam, rinsed, and turned off the light.

I began to dream of it. In my dreams it slid free from between teeth and glided along the root of my tongue like a warm moonbeam, seeking a farther exit. I told no one. I knew it was not "normal," and precisely for that reason I wanted to keep it.

I knew it moved — truly moved. Sometimes it trembled like quicksilver; sometimes it clustered like tiny plankton building a nest in the dark of my mouth. I wasn't afraid; I only wanted it to go further.

I began to cough, my speech catching; even the simple word “I” stuck in my throat. I understood it wanted my attention, and I was waiting for it to take more. But it was too restrained. It never seized; it only waited for me to answer. Like a considerate but slow lover, or a cautious choreographer, it only stepped forward when I stepped back.

So I decided to go to the clinic. I didn’t truly intend to have it removed — I wanted to frighten it. If I pretended to end our relationship, perhaps it would panic, lose control, and finally possess me.

I walked into the dentist’s office, sat on the chair, and in the slurred, vague tone it liked, told the dentist I wanted the silver taken out. The dentist asked, “Are you sure?” I said, “Mm.”

I felt it react. My throat tightened, my tongue heated, saliva rushing like a tide. It strained, expanded, begged me to keep it. Then it succeeded. It slipped through my unguarded soft palate and stabbed the most sensitive point in my throat; my whole body convulsed, as if split in two. A flash of vertigo.

When I opened my eyes again I was not the same. “I changed my mind. Don’t take it out.” I repeated the line inside my mind — bright, light — matching the joy that thrilled through us. The dentist glanced at us, asked no questions, and merely nodded.

Outside, the air pressed on me with a restless warmth. It touched me first roughly, pain riding above pleasure; then it softened and wandered across my body. In trembling surrender I gave up silver ions, half-heard the sound of its contented laugh.

No — do not think this is my defeat in a struggle for bodily control. This was my willing choice: the deepest kind of collaboration. I consented to be penned, to be handled, to be stroked and filled.

I chose to be the interface beneath its tongue, the single answer in the depths of my mouth — an inarticulable, addictive secret.

《东亚》节选

作者：劳儿
[中文 > ENG]

Excerpts from East Asia

这是他离开中国的第一天，或许，也可以说是逃亡。在还没有发生战争的地方——他从惊恐中醒过来，就像是正在面临一次恐吓。人们提起难民的时候，中文已经将他隔离，好像不会有真的、新的痕迹。

This was his first day leaving China. Or, perhaps it would be more accurate to call it an escape. He woke from terror in a place where war had not yet arrived, as if he were facing a threat. When people spoke of refugees, the Chinese language itself had already quarantined him, as if no real, new trace could be left behind.

他以前这样安慰过自己：总会有人听见。一个故事想要从死亡中被讲出口，他看电影的时候也像在解密，他相信，所有被禁止的声音，有一把隐形的秤、神明、另一个人，正在爱惜这些声音。夜里，他梦见一个说话从不需要加上问号的男人，然后，在复仇和愤怒的情绪烧到极致时，他想要一种完全的臣服。他想为他写好死亡的结局，为他画上句号。

He used to comfort himself like this: someone will hear it. A story wants to be spoken out of death. It felt like deciphering codes when he watched films as well. He believed that every forbidden voice was being cherished by some invisible scale, some god, some other person. At night, he dreamed of a man who never needed question marks when he spoke. And when revenge and rage burned to their peak, he longed for total surrender. He wanted to write the ending of that man's death himself, to place the final period.

墓碑前的草正在随风颤动，他已经很久没有将眼神仔细停留在绿色中。后来的事情发生得太快，他来不及去照料爱过的那些热带植物，它们的枯干暴露出光线的速度，夜里忘了浇水，他从警察局回来，它们就已经灼伤。离开之前，他把还活着的托付给了朋友们。

The grass before the gravestone trembled in the wind. It had been a long time since he let his gaze rest amid the green. Everything afterward had happened too fast. He had no time to care for the tropical plants he once loved, their dried stems exposed the speed of light. One night he forgot to water them. By the time he returned from the police station, they were already scorched. Before leaving, he entrusted the ones still alive to friends.

他又在墓碑前多待了一会儿，过往的伤痕像是一片叶子被风吹起，他刚来，就被迷住了。他带着这个故事从集中营走回去就像是捧着一个火种，一个只能被那样说出来的句子。

He lingered at the grave a little longer. Past wounds lifted like a leaf caught by wind. The moment he arrived, he was mesmerized. He carried this story back from the camp like a flame cupped in his hands, like a sentence that could only be spoken that way.

目的地是旅馆，是坐下来写下刚出现的记忆。对语言的努力，从来都不能说是失败。他不停地重复着自己要写的第一句话。

His destination was a hotel. It was a memory that was written down upon resurfacing. The effort toward language could never be called a failure. He kept repeating the first sentence he was going to write.

那是两个女孩的墓碑。汤写下第一句话。

It was the gravestone of two girls. Tang wrote the first line.

在集中营之前，在学校之前，这里是一个寺庙。她和它都是新来的。她在这里练习钢琴。西洋乐器。没有父母，只留下她。她是被豁免的那一个。那些流浪狗时刻跟着她，它们的后代或许有一个踏入过审讯室。

Before the camp, before the school, this place had been a temple. She and it were both newcomers. She practiced the piano here. A Western instrument. Her parents were gone; only she remained. She was the one spared. Stray dogs followed her constantly. Perhaps one of their descendants once stepped into an interrogation room.

一个和尚教会她新的语言。然后，像是为了让她在完全陌生的地方寻找到一种寄托，像是佛像在殿堂里，也是为了让她的留下来，让她明白土地、让她愿意将血洒在这里。人们运来了那架钢琴。在这个国家几乎不存在的声音。

A monk taught her a new language. Perhaps it was to give her something to cling to in a completely foreign place. Like the Buddha statue in the hall, it was also to make her stay, to make her understand the land, to make her willing to spill blood here. They transported the piano here—a sound that almost did not exist in this country.

女孩的父亲搭错了船，在湄公河上晃来晃去，在那条支流、穿越国界线的支流，人们一眼认出了他，水上的路并不明显，而且，那正是涨水的时候，所有的水加速汇向洞里萨。芒果树被淹到一半，他们越走，离海越近，分不清楚那是湖还是海。

Her father boarded the wrong boat. It rocked along the Mekong, along a tributary that crossed borders. People recognized him at a glance. The path on water was not obvious, and the river was swelling; all waters rushed toward Tonlé Sap. Mango trees were half submerged. The farther they went, the closer they were to the sea. It was impossible to tell whether it was a lake or the ocean.

审问他的人说，告诉我们，你做过的错事。你拿取别人的。你拿走国家的。你多出来的。几轮极刑下来，他的头倒立在水缸里，痛苦是水压砸向头的力，长相成了罪名。他回答了一句他自己最喜欢的歌词，来自故乡的摇滚乐队，审问者用音译记在了情报中心那一栏，完成了翻译，还画了一幅面前这个外国人的肖像。

The interrogator said, Tell us your crimes. What you took from others. What you took from the state. What you took in excess. After rounds of torture, his head was forced upside down into a water jar. Pain was the force of water pressure smashing against his skull. His features became his crime. He answered with his favorite lyric, from a rock band in his homeland. The interrogator recorded it phonetically in the intelligence file, completed the translation, and drew a portrait of the foreigner in front of him.

有了牵挂，人就仿佛在这里出生。早晨，女孩打扫完回廊，绕着回廊走上一个小时，冥想，或是念经，她唤来形象，又试图拒绝这不请自来的冒犯。下午，她在房间里练习钢琴。这是已经被宣布的和平时期，新的国家接管了这里，有人在说，在这种危急的、贫困潦倒的时候，殖民也能带来友谊。

Once a person had something to care about, it'd feel as though they were born here. In the mornings, the girl swept the corridor, then walked its length for an hour—meditating, chanting. She summoned images and tried to refuse their uninvited intrusion. In the afternoons, she practiced the piano in her room. Peace had already been declared; a new nation had taken over. Some said that in times of crisis and poverty, even colonialism could bring friendship.

她在善意和寂静的环境中成长起来。寺庙和琴声是天然的屏障，从引道走向藏经阁就像是一首曲子的最后一个音，她找来贝叶经，她拍了拍自己近乎飘出去的灵魂，说：神圣。她看不懂巴利文，但是从种子到声音，她能触摸到音符的形状。她最会听，最会抚摸。她珍视手和耳朵的力。

She grew up in kindness and silence. The temple and the sound of the piano were natural barriers. Walking from the entrance path to the sutra library was like the final note of a piece. She found palm-leaf scriptures. She patted her nearly drifting soul and said: sacred. She couldn't read Pali, but from seed to sound she could touch the shape of notes. She was best at listening, best at caressing. She treasured the strength of hands and ears.

午餐的时候，和尚用木锹狠狠地敲向一根铁棍，狗们狂吠，声音从高处、低处传来，聚拢在一起，她停止弹琴，去听那刺耳的声音。

At lunchtime, the monk struck an iron rod with a wooden shovel. The dogs barked wildly. The sound came from high and low, gathered together. She stopped playing and listened to the harsh noise.

到了十五岁。她能听见所有弦外之音。石头被腐蚀的速度比琴键快，那架钢琴从来没有人调音，她掌握了错误的概念，唯一的音准、速度。她和它合为一体。她从不去寺庙外面，那里是父母的亡魂，危险的前奏。

At fifteen, she could hear every overtone. Stone eroded faster than piano keys. The piano had never been tuned. She mastered a flawed concept of pitch and tempo. She and the instrument fused into one. She never left the temple grounds. Outside lay her parents' ghosts—the dangerous prelude.

除了钢琴，她还有一个喜欢的藏身之处——女孩知道寺庙的秘密，某些佛像只有正面是完整的，她走去背面。那里是一个能装下她的大窟窿，一个灰色的洞。

Besides the piano, she had a favorite hiding place. She knew the temple's secrets: some Buddha statues were whole only from the front. She walked behind them. There was a hollow large enough to contain her, a gray cavern.

她从未见过父亲，只记得母亲奔跑的脚，那一双脚沾满了泥土，她被抱着往下看的时候，就像是被一只动物驮着。母亲跑过那些岩石，排列得紧密的结晶，是石头里的森林，最后的声音是女人恳求的音调，然后，她就降生在这个寺庙里。

She had never seen her father. She only remembered her mother's running feet, caked in mud. When she looked down from her mother's embrace, she felt as though she were borne by an animal. Her mother ran across rocks packed tightly like crystallized forests. The last sound was a woman pleading. Then, she was born in this temple.

她在窟窿里，耳朵在听，手拿着小石块画着那些声音。想象中的声音，寺庙里的声音，线条、形状、没有脸的身体。

In the hollow cave, her ears listened. Her hands held small stones, drawing those sounds. Imagined sounds, temple sounds, lines, shapes, faceless bodies.

一天，弦外之音成了另一个人的声音。她正准备拿起小石子，画出这个不知道是真的模糊还是只是因为听不懂而带来的模糊的声音时，看见了面前的弹孔痕迹。

One day, an overtone became another person's voice. She was about to pick up a stone and draw that blur, whether from distance or from incomprehension, when she saw the bullet holes before her.

这是新出现的吗？她听着她的声音。另一个人正在佛像前祈祷。她用手去抚摸那些凹陷。在佛像里面的，都显得古老，她分不清楚，她不知道是自己没有注意到，还是有人在她不在里面的时候开枪——一瞬间，她明白了死去、战争、别处的事情。她克制住了从洞里出来去看的欲望，她想等另一个人说完。等那个声音消失之后，她重新回到房间弹琴，很快，她又在琴声中包容了缺乏语言的痛苦。

Were they new? She listened to her own voice. Someone was praying before the statue. She touched the indentations with her fingers. Inside the Buddha everything seemed ancient. She couldn't tell. She didn't know whether she had simply never noticed, or whether someone had fired shots while she wasn't inside. In an instant, she understood death, war, elsewhere. She restrained the urge to crawl out of the cave and look. She wanted to wait until the other person finished speaking. When the voice disappeared, she returned to her room and played the piano, quickly enfolding speechless pain into sound.

有人拿走了城市，人们在别处哭泣。她是不是拜错了神？她听不懂那个人的语言，等她再回到房间的时候，她用旋律回应那听不懂的声音，回应还没有见到面的人。以后这里再也不会停止放安魂曲。一片将会始终被要求安息的地方。

Someone had taken the city. People were crying at another place. Had she worshiped the wrong god? She couldn't understand the language of the person praying. When she returned to her room, she answered that incomprehensible voice with melody, answering someone she had not yet met. From then on, this place would never stop playing requiems. A land forever commanded to rest in peace.

在第二个早晨，天还没有完全亮的时候，汤就是在这时候写下了女孩的名字。Mul。一个最常见，在这片土地的人一定梦见过的名字。汤和身边的朋友，都爱给自己取一个单字。这个基础的字像是被他们自己听见，然后说出来的。

On the second morning, before dawn, Tang wrote down the girl's name. Mul. A common name—one that people of this land must have dreamed before. Tang and his friends liked giving themselves single-character names. A basic word, like one first heard by themselves, then spoken aloud.

后来，再从那些试图赶走他们的人嘴里说出来，本名已经成了一个咒语，是应该和出生地一起埋葬的咒语，说出来是在招魂。他花了很长时间掌握：国界线内，和另外被包围着的、没有海洋阻隔的区域，是完全不一样的政治。工人阶级、地下社群，这些已经难以区分。他从书本里钻出来，走进现实中去。两种真实的颤动：被随机杀死的人和正在迎来不幸命运的人。一个想法永远无法吃掉另一个。每一个都是真的。直到他们从那个破旧的屋子里发出声音，有人从马赛克样的瓷砖里看见童年，看见故乡的含义，梯形的阳台里总有新种上的绿植，而他们在这里忙着吃纸，把正在遭受战争的名字丢进烤箱里。

Later, when those who tried to drive them away spoke their names, their given names became incantations—spells to be buried with their birthplace; to speak them was to summon ghosts. It took him a long time to grasp that politics inside borders and those in enclosed, landlocked regions were entirely different. The working class and underground communities were no longer easily distinguished. He crawled out of books and into reality. Reality has two types of shocks—the trembles of those randomly killed and those fated with misfortune. One idea could never swallow another. Each was real. Until they raised their voices from that worn-down house, until someone saw childhood in mosaic tiles, saw the meaning of homeland, trapezoid balconies would always be sprouting new plants; while here, they busied themselves with eating paper, throwing the names of war into the oven.

三十岁开始，他接受了这种成长，接受了一出门，空气中总像是充满雾——他习惯性地擦了擦眼镜。除了他们自己，没有人能准确地说起被害者、加害人。难道依然活着的人才是最盲目的？他这样想过。那么多印象，那么多人相同的印象，慢慢地，这里变成陈旧的，适合发生落后的事情的地方。

After thirty, he accepted this growth. He accepted how stepping outside always felt like walking into fog—he habitually wiped his glasses. No one but themselves could accurately name the victim or perpetrator. Were the living the most blind? He had thought so. So many impressions, so many shared impressions. Slowly this place turned stale, suitable for the occurrence of backwardness.

通常他会用电脑写作，但这一次他拿起了笔，黑色的墨落在纸上，就好像这是一种嗅觉，他使劲在嗅。离开东亚的第一口。第一粒。在之前的三十多年里，他已经习得种子般的性格，在哪里都可以发芽，在哪里，都能闻到周围的气味。他不喜欢从低处说话，在来之前，他向自己承诺要按照太阳的节律生活，就像是那些生活在海边、森林的人，他渴望一种自然的节律，一种气息带来平静的节奏。但刚到，他就被女孩的故事迷住了。

He usually wrote on a computer, but this time he picked up a pen. Black ink fell onto paper like a scent, and he inhaled deeply. The first breath away from East Asia. The first grain. In more than thirty years he had cultivated a seed-like character; he could sprout anywhere, smell his surroundings anywhere. He disliked speaking from low ground. Before coming, he had promised himself to live by the sun's rhythm, like those living by the sea or forest. He longed for a natural cadence, a breathing that brought calm. But as soon as he arrived, he was captivated by the girl's story.

在他出发之前，那是凌晨，菲从睡梦中支支吾吾说出一声祝福。

Before he left, at dawn, Fei murmured a blessing from sleep.

“我期待你看见的新东西。”

“I look forward to the new things you'll see.”

一双新的眼睛，爱人的眼睛。

A new pair of eyes, the eyes of a lover.

那是他在中国听见的最后一声，从来都是两个人，再多一些，不超过十个人，空气被聚拢，语言在这个家舒展开来。他们的家，是那个城市唯一缺乏性别的地方，他们总是同时睡着，手抚摸着另一个人，身上没有一处要宣称性别，毛孔突破限制，浓缩成一个字，不停地找词，不停地摆脱找词。第一次来这个家，他们还不能睡着，飞机就从他们头顶飞过，声音由远到近，这栋楼刚好位于航线上，有时候他们梦见战争，过了一段时间，他们已经习惯提高音量说话，轰鸣声成了掩护：不可能有一个不动地、稳定的地方。他们学会了理解噪音，在海浪声中睡着。菲说起板块，说起不能理解的数字之前，说起遥远的地方一个国家和另一个被占领的国家站在一起。两次压迫，两次种族灭绝。

That was the last sound he heard in China. Always just the two of them, sometimes a few more—never more than ten. The air gathered close; language uncurled in their home. Their home was the only genderless place in that city. They always fell asleep together, hands touching, no part of their bodies claiming gender. Pores broke boundaries and condensed into a single word; they were constantly searching for words, constantly escaping them. When they first arrived at this house they couldn't sleep; planes roared overhead. The building laid under a flight path. Sometimes they dreamed of war. Later they learned to raise their voices, and the rumble became their cover. There could be no immovable, stable place. They learned to understand noise, to fall asleep in waves. Fei spoke of tectonic plates, of incomprehensible numbers, of one distant nation standing beside another occupied one. Two oppressions. Two genocides.

汤说，站在一起，听上去就像两个人。

Tang said that standing together sounded like two people.

很多人来了、被驱逐、再次回来。

Many arrived, were expelled, and returned again.

从家到家的第二个意思，最稳定的词也不可思议地流动起来。

The second meaning of from one home to another... Even the most stable word flowed.

从男和女到两个人。词和词性。

From man and woman to two people. Words and their genders.

从那个家坐火车过去，就会来到另一片大陆。封控的时候，这条路被无形地挡住，陆地间布满了线，布满了看不见的断裂。他写过空气里有人看不见的物质。越趋近边缘，越看不见边界在哪里。在那些他们周末去过的地方，总是有一种相同的、被困住的感觉。永远次要的旅行地。在最南方，温度和湿度平均地形成温室，时间暂停。城市是城市的延伸，没有分别。

A train from that home would lead to another continent. During lockdown, the route was shapelessly blocked. The land was filled with lines, filled with unseen ruptures. He once wrote about invisible substances in the air. The closer to the edge, the less visible the boundary. In places they visited on weekends, there was always the same trapped feeling. Perpetually secondary destinations. In the far south, temperature and humidity formed a greenhouse, and time paused. One city is another's extension, blurring into each other.

他们把在这里发生的事情，挪用，转述，一个场景跟着另一个，联想从来不曾停止，他们用力地说，在历史中空喊着，备忘录正摊开，他们在引起联想的隐喻下面画了一条横线。在这里生活，他们已经学会快速地将隐喻和生命经验联系在一起。然后，整本书都被涂满。他们放下书，拿起书，又放下书，字和生活是隐约相斥的概念，他们和他们读过的之间，总有一方低人一等。

They borrowed what happened here and retold it. One scene after another, associations never stopped. They spoke forcefully, shouting into history. A memo laid open; beneath evocative metaphors they drew a line. Living here, they learned to connect metaphor and lived experience quickly. Soon, the whole book was covered in markings. They put it down, picked it up, and put it down again. Words and life were faintly opposed concepts. Between themselves and what they read, one side was always inferior.

后来，朋友的记忆越来越短，灾难之后，人更明白应该活在当下，他们学会了集中注意力，在全国哀悼的那场地震之后，他的亲戚们在祝酒词中加上了：珍惜。但有时候，一些词藏不住地跳脱出来，听起来比化石还久远，但只是三个月。再也找不到从壳里出来的感觉，一切都成了壳，但遗忘不会停止。在他决定要离开之后，一些像是书里的句子随着告别的日期越来越近，他们说得多：这就是现在在发生的；这是文学里难以及时出现的，我们不能等待。他说，我不能等到以一声叹息结尾的时候。独裁者的名字之后，意外而亡的人之后，直接来到了叹息。那时候，又能怎么办呢？

Later, friends' memories grew shorter. After a disaster, people understood better how to live in the moment. They learned to concentrate. After the nationwide mourning for the earthquake, his relatives added a phrase to their toasts: cherish. Yet some words burst out uncontrollably, sounding older than fossils, though only three months had passed. The feeling of breaking out of a shell was gone; everything had become a shell, but forgetting did not stop. After he decided to leave, sentences like those in the books multiplied as farewell approached: This is what is happening now; this is what rarely appeared in time in literature. We could not wait. He said, I can't wait until it ends with a sigh. After the dictator's name, after the names of those who died accidentally, the sigh would follow. And then, what could we do?

夜晚，菲是有故事的储备的，在最后的讲述开始之前，汤说：不要再用从前开头，给我讲一个未来的故事。菲喜欢历史，他知道过去只有这个地方习惯记下那些发生过的，他知道迫害不是第一次，象的鼻子曾经没有那么灵活，当这里的记录暂停时，他越来越对以前的、别处的历史感兴趣。

At night, Fei kept an archive of stories. Before the final telling began, Tang said, Don't start with the past. Tell me a story about the future. Fei loved history. He knew that only here were events habitually recorded. He knew persecution was not new, that elephants' trunks had once been less flexible. When records here paused, he grew increasingly interested in histories elsewhere.

他讲起汤会去的那个地方。国王三次迁都，然后是一场大火。他用第三人称描述汤。他是国王，有时候，他又成了突然出现的一只小虫。在汤面前，菲可以天马行空地调用所有的感官，把自己不擅长的情感表达和历史结合在一起。

He told of the place Tang would go. A king moved his capital three times, then came a great fire. He described Tang in the third person. He was the king; sometimes he became a sudden insect. Before Tang, Fei could summon every sense freely, fusing emotions he struggled to express with history.

恋人面向分别，翅膀却一起展开了。他们一起去了目的地。汤感觉像是在和对方试飞，他们一起见过神明。

The lovers faced separation, yet their wings opened together. They traveled to the destination together. Tang felt as though they were test-flying. Together they had seen gods.

每过几天，朋友们聚在这个房子里看书，就好像是永生，周围是完全不同的童年，他们说：蘑菇有蘑菇的时间；这样一本书被看见正是说明有很多和我们一样在反抗的人，只是我们还没有相遇。

Every few days, friends gathered in the house to read, as if they were immortal. Around them were completely different childhoods. They said, Mushrooms have mushroom time. If a book like this is seen, it means many others like us are resisting. We just haven't met.

他们在每一个人的家里询问主人的童年：“你竟然可以看出来一条街缺少了什么。”

In each other's homes they asked about childhoods, "You can actually tell what a street is missing?"

我从小在这里长大。”

"I grew up here."

“你对这里太熟悉了。”

"You know this place too well."

“连桥洞的位置都知道。”

"You even know where the bridge holes are."

外面发生的、里面发生的、他们的身体、爱、寻死的念头，都一样重要。他们问得越来越多，思考就像水草生出粘液，正在把周围的吸附进来。他们阐述自己的生命，并且相信，这是更本质的革命。

What happened outside and inside, their bodies, love, thoughts of death... they were all equally important. They asked more and more. Thinking was like water plants secreting mucus, pulling everything around into adhesion. They articulated their lives and believed that this was a more essential revolution.

汤还在读大学的时候，骑自行车经过的那些字仿佛是为了让他们失去对这些字的信心，自由、民主、诚信，最后，字被字掏空了，他经过的时候，只感到字里面那团红色的恶心。他也曾经站在那里，兴奋地在社团招新，当时，一种难以言说的集体气氛包裹着他——“这是我的地方”，从他面前经过的人，学校里的道路、空气、植物，都令人意外地互相贴合、甜蜜，后来，辅导员查出他偷藏的不当言论——在网络上搜索的那些，和室友们讨论的那些，威胁他不能毕业的时候，他再也无法闻到这里的气味。

When Tang was still in college, the slogans he cycled past seemed designed to strip faith from words: freedom, democracy, integrity. In the end, words were hollowed out by words. Passing by, he felt only the nauseating red mass inside them. He once stood there too, excitedly recruiting for clubs, wrapped in an indescribable collective atmosphere—"This is my place." People passing before him, the campus roads, air, and plants all fit together sweetly. Later, when his counselor discovered the improper remarks he had hidden—what he searched online and discussed with his roommates—and threatened to nullify his graduation, he could no longer smell this place.

当女孩还活着的时候，是看不见这种速度的。然后，一个会在以后才知道那是哪一天的日子到来。永恒是当下强烈的念头，历史后知后觉，在后来的影像里，没有人再去找她的父母亲，那成了两张遗照的爱情故事。

When the girl was still alive, she could not see such speed. Then came a day whose date would only later be known. Eternity was an intensely present thought; history only understood afterward. In the footage later, no one searched for her parents anymore. It became a love story between two memorial photos.

两张照片，因为拥有一段被流传的爱情故事而放大，女人扎着辫子，男人正捕起一条鱼，那是完全纯净、心无旁骛地笑。其他的遗照则是更小的正方形。没有尸体回来。后来拍纪录片的，有类似记忆的人，他们把镜头对准周围正在发生的。那些动作、声音，那些依然伫立在这里的树林正在说明真相，枪声之后的颤动不曾停止。

Two photographs, enlarged because they embodied a circulated love story. The woman wearing braids, the man catching a fish, smiling with pure concentration. Other memorial photos were smaller squares. No bodies returned. Later, documentary filmmakers—those with similar memories—aimed their cameras at what was still happening. Movements, sounds, and forests that remained standing testified to truth. The tremor after gunfire had never ceased.

下午四点Mul跪在佛像前，先是看到佛的手势，她说，不要害怕。师傅开始念经，那几日都是关于超度，特别的祈祷文，超度新来的亡魂。地藏殿已经装不下。在家乡，他们祈祷的姿势被认为是在煽动土地动乱。审判者擅于修辞。她学的语言和念经的语言不同。她听着从师傅嘴里冒出的节奏，净化和吐出同时进行着，供奉完鲜花之后，她也在角落里跟着师傅念，作为一种回声。她张嘴，模仿那些音。那时候，她被认定是女孩，还不能去正中间。神的左右耳被各种方言填满，无论性别和年龄，听上去都是一样轻柔。

At four in the afternoon, Mul knelt before the Buddha. She first saw the Buddha's hand gesture: Do not be afraid. The master began chanting. Those days the chants were about deliverance, special prayers to ferry newly arrived souls. The Hall of Kṣitigarbha could no longer contain them. In her homeland, prayer postures were accused of inciting unrest. Judges were skilled in rhetoric. The language she learned was not the language of the sutras. She listened to the rhythm flowing from the master's mouth—purifying and expelling at once. After offering fresh flowers, she followed in a corner, chanting as an echo. She opened her mouth, imitating the sounds. At that time she was identified as a girl, not yet allowed in the center. The god's left and right ears were filled with dialects. Regardless of gender or age, they all sounded equally gentle.

可以吃的女人

作者：阿南西
[中文 > ENG]

Women for Food

我们在谈论美食。

We were discussing fine cuisine.

在座的，都是美食家。

This gathering, all of us, were gourmands.

我表示，自己已经饥肠辘辘。我数日未曾进食，填饱肚子便是今日前来的首要目的。

I told them I was famished. Having gone without food for days, filling my stomach was my primary purpose for coming today.

她说，我要去厨房一趟。接着，她消失了。

She, one of us, said, "I gotta head to the kitchen." Next moment, she was gone.

我们心照不宣。

We knew what was going on.

不久，席间只剩寥寥几人。我提议抽签。就像雪莉·杰克逊的《中奖彩票》，那个抽中的人将前往后厨，探索秘密。她将孤身一人深入怪物的肠胃，摸索出一条蹊径。

Soon, only a few remained at the table. I suggested drawing lots. Like in Shirley Jackson's The Lottery, the chosen one would venture into the kitchen to uncover the secret. She would go alone into the monster's belly, feeling her way through a hidden passage.

很快，摸彩变成了四角游戏——就像《林中小屋》的creepypasta版本。倘若这是个恶作剧，那么，能致敬的皆已致敬完毕了。最终，昏暗的餐厅里只剩下了我。我凝视着墙上伫立不动的影子，晓得这不可避免的时刻终于来临了。

Soon, the lottery turned into a horrible game—like a creepypasta version of the movie called The Cabin in the Woods. If this were a prank, I thought to myself, every homage had been paid.

Finally, I was the only one left in the dimly lit dining room. Staring at the motionless shadow on the wall, I knew the inevitable moment had arrived.

没错，就像你们猜想得那样，她们都死了，成了刀下亡魂。

Yes, just as you might have guessed—they were all butchered and cooked, victims of the knives.

我来到后厨。这是一处明亮、洁净的所在。宽敞空旷的流理台空无一人。

I entered the kitchen. It was bright and spotless. A spacious, empty counter stood there, utterly deserted.

一人垂在烤箱旁边，开膛剖腹，血已流光，颜色惨白，填满香料和切块的配菜。定睛一看，竟是以报纸搓成的细绳捆扎起的。

One woman hung beside the oven, gutted and drained bloodless, her pallid flesh stuffed with spices and chopped vegetables. Upon closer look, she was rope-tied with newspaper strips.

第二人直挺挺躺在菜板上，小小的菜板像她的枕头，托着她软垂的颈椎，她面部肌肉似乎受了拉扯，露出严肃、苦恼的神情——这对一具尸体可可不常见。她甚至握着一柄削皮刀。可以想象，她面对劲敌时傲然抵抗，抬臂将虚空分割为缕。

The second one lay stiff on a cutting board, the small surface cradling her limp neck like a pillow. Her facial muscles seemed stretched taut, revealing a solemn, anguished look—quite uncommon for a corpse. Her hand was even clutching a paring knife. One could imagine her fiercely fighting a formidable foe, raising her arm to slice through the air.

第三人抱着一台便携音箱。从她的嘴洞里传来断断续续的反馈信号。也不知道她把什么咀嚼咽下，又不能完全消化。

The third one held a portable speaker in her dead arms. From the gaping hole of her mouth escaped muffled, intermittent feedback. Whatever she had chewed and swallowed, they remained half-digested.

如此种种，不能概括女人被吃的诸般结局。

Such scenes could never fully capture the myriad fates of women devoured.

定睛一看，我顿时醒悟：这些女人不再是她们生前的样子。这昏暗的灯光包藏祸心，掩蔽了不少秘密。捻细的报纸捆扎着第一个草人，整木的菜板枕着第二个草人，第三个草人，电子乐爱好者，草编的嘴洞掩盖着扩音设备。这些草人替代了我们熟知的女人，生产料理，打理家务，生儿育女。

Peering closer, I suddenly realized: these women no longer resembled their living selves. The dimness shrouded the true colors of their corpses; they were straw dummies now. The first dummy was bound with newspaper strips. The second rested on the wooden cutting board. The third, an apparent EDM enthusiast, with her straw mouth full of music. Straw dummies had replaced the women we knew—cooking meals, tending the house, bearing children.

我也是个草人，和所有的草人息息相关。

I too was a straw dummy, interconnected with all the others.

对草人而言，食肉，便是肉人的茹素。

For straw people, eating meat is like vegetarianism for the fleshy carnivores.

生命于肠胃蠕动中消亡，又于消化后生产；肠道才是真正的产道，连通产妇的肚脐眼。

Life perishes in the intestinal contractions, only to be reborn after digestion. That is to say, the guts are the de facto birth canal, connecting to the mother's navel.

男人是最薄弱的一环。是的，他们自以为是肉食者。

Men were the weakest link. Yeah, they had the nerves to identify as carnivores.

黑夜降临。

Night descended.

每一个草人都逐渐凝实，结出肉身，犹如桃李累累，又心念连通。

One by one, the straw people solidified, sprouting flesh like peaches and plums, every mind intertwined.

我们手牵着手，面带笑容，持着擀面杖、螺丝刀、鼠标、牙签棒，撒豆成兵似地，迅速地包围了宿满成年男性的军营。

We marched on, hand-in-hand, grin-to-grin, wielding rolling pins, screwdrivers, computer mice, and toothpicks. Like magical soldiers transformed from beans, we swiftly encircled the camp teeming with sleeping males.

深夜的寂静埋葬了此起彼伏的鼾声。

The night's deadly stillness swallowed their rising tide of snores.

是时候给他们上一课了——这些未苏醒的肉人们。

Time to teach them a lesson—these flesh-bound, dim-witted men.

First Love

初恋 [ENG > 中文]

By Yimin Huang

In our community, people often talk about the moments that preceded our “awakening”, and in my case, it came from watching the film Soul Mate. I used to think it had a much better name in Mandarin, Qi Yue Yu (And) An Sheng, the names of the two protagonists who are both women, one whose name symbolizes stability and the other, chaos and adventure. In the film, two girls who were best friends since childhood had their friendship tested by a man, and their fates began to unravel. But at the end of the film, the man was out of the picture, and all they had was each other again.

在我们的社群里，人们常谈起那种在“觉醒”来临前的片刻；对我而言，那一刻来自于看见一部电影——《七月与安生》。我一直觉得这片名中文本就好：七月、安生——两个女主角的名字，一名象征安定，另一名寓意混沌与冒险。影片讲的是从小青梅竹马的两个女孩，被一个男人牵扯出裂痕，命运自此各自解开。可到最后，那男人退场了，她们又只剩下彼此。

When the film first came out in 2016, I was in my last year of high school, and I was not thinking about love in general. In fact, throughout my life up to that point, I never experienced crushes on anyone. My mom said it was because I grew up a tomboy and would soon grow out of it when puberty hit.

这片2016年上映时，我正读高中最后一年，心思并未向“爱情”倾斜。事实上，在那之前的人生里，我几乎从未对任何人动过心。母亲曾说，那是因为我小时候像个假小子，等青春期一过，会慢慢改变的。

I also grew up in an all-girls' school. Being a tomboy in an all-girls' school in Beijing was an interesting experience. Relationships were widely discouraged, including the ones many girls tried to maintain with the boys from a neighboring school, and could be a topic of discussion between concerned parents and teachers. There were no boys to play the man's role in our drama class, so I was easily the top choice with my short-ish hair a little above the shoulder, tanned skin, propensity for competitive sports, and generally “boyish” attitude.

我是在一所全女校长大的。身为一个假小子，在北京的女校里读书，是种奇特的体验。恋爱在校里常被不鼓励——许多女孩和邻校男生维持的关系，常成家长与老师关切的话题。戏剧课里没有男生可演“男人”，因此我反倒是常被选去演男角：短及肩的发、晒黑的肤色、爱好竞技的性子、带着几分“男孩子气”，自然成为首选。

In our drama assessment, I played a male role in a musical set in an orphanage, and gained many female fans after I did a convincing crying scene. The combined factor of looking a little like a boy and having that additional vulnerability of a girl quickly tipped things in my favor. I was so good, they chanted my name in unison. A few girls even left me red roses and scented handwritten notes after the performance. I thanked them, but did not bother to open the notes.

那次期末戏剧考核，我在一齣设定于孤儿院的音乐剧里演男角，有一场逼真的哭戏，使我圈了一堆女粉丝。长相有几分中性，再加上一瞬间流露出的脆弱，迅速把她们的目光吸引过来。那晚她们齐声呼喊我的名字，几位女孩在台下留下红玫瑰和带香味的手写小条。我道了谢，却没有去拆那些纸条。

Soon, the school theater invited me to join their team, and realizing this was something I could be good at, I accepted. They offered me a variety of other male roles, including womanizers, the really cold and aloof kind that sat on the side of the chair, occasionally saying a few deep words, all secretly emotional and Albert Camus-esque. I would have a few trysts with a femme fatale blonde woman (my schoolmate wearing a wig) and other mysterious foreigners. I also played men with wives, men with kids, and men fresh out of the army.

不久，话剧社邀我入团。我发现自己确实干这行还不错，便答应了。他们给我安排了各式“男人”：色胚、冷漠高傲型（坐在椅边，偶尔抛出几句深沉台词，私下里却满腔情感，带着卡繆式的孤独）；我会与一位妖艳金发的“危险女人”（女同学戴假发）有几段风流韵事，也会扮演已婚者、有孩之人、或刚退伍的军人。

Like other theater students, I was well-versed in a variety of acting techniques, including Meisner, Stanislavski, and Chekhov. In retrospect, I wondered if parts of such characters had begun to seep into my subconscious then. In any case, at the end of that fall, I became close friends with Jia Jia, the beginning of my unraveling.

和其他戏剧学生一样，我学过美斯纳、斯坦尼斯拉夫斯基、契诃夫等各种表演法。事后回想，不免怀疑那些角色的一部分，是否早已悄悄渗入我的潜意识。无论如何，那年秋天的尾声，我与嘉嘉结成了亲密友谊——也是我自此开始慢慢解体的开端。

★

The day I met Jia Jia, she told me she was in love with my acting and that she had a boyfriend. I was sitting on the theater stage after a rendition of the historical Chinese play Lei Yu, munching on an egg tart that another fan had given me. My theater friends were all around me, congratulating one another on the performance. I felt their arms around me, all the high-fives and light nudges. There was something about crowds. I could escape into them.

我第一次见嘉嘉时，她对她说她喜欢我的表演，而且她已经有男朋友了。我坐在舞台上，看完历史剧《雷雨》刚下场，嚼着另外一个粉丝递来的蛋挞。朋友们围着我，互相拥抱、击掌、推搡，拥挤的人群让我觉得自己被包裹、可以借此逃离日常。

Then Jia Jia went right up to us and looked directly at me when she said, “I really enjoyed your acting. I wanted my boyfriend to come along too, but he’s a typical guy. Not too keen on theater.”

嘉嘉走上前来，对着我说：“我很喜欢你的表演。我本想叫我男友一起来，但他是那种典型的男生，不太喜欢看戏。”她看着我说话时，眼神直直落在我脸上。

It was not the first time I had heard that from anyone, though dating was still frowned upon by some parents and teachers. People always found ways to do the things they wanted anyway, but when she told me about her boyfriend, I had the keen sense that I would rather not hear about him.

听到“他有女朋友”这种话并非第一次，戏校里恋爱本就不被某些家长和老师看好。大多数人总能找到自己的方式行事，但当她提到男友时，我隐隐有一种不愿再听下去的感觉。

“Well, his loss,” I said simply. I hopped down from the stage and held out another egg tart. “You want some?”

“那是他的损失。”我淡淡答道，跳下舞台，递出另一只蛋挞：“要不要吃一个？”

She shook her head. “I know the character you played, how important he is in Chinese history.” In my memory, the stage lights were dim, the other actors were busy packing up, the crowd that remained behind was sparse, and there was not another face that stood out other than Jia Jia’s.

她摇头。“我知道你演的那个角色，在中国历史里有多重要。”我记得当时舞台灯微暗，其他演员忙着收道具，留在现场的人已稀少，唯有她的脸格外醒目。

From the outset, Jia Jia seemed like a typical school girl with long hair tied up in a ponytail and bangs as neat as the rest of her uniform. But what captured my attention were the things she talked about. I immediately had the feeling we could talk instantly for hours. Though she was not an actress, she also knew about those acting techniques. She knew how hard I worked, that acting was not all fun and games, but an art form. She knew that when it came to things I was passionate about, I worked harder than anyone else. I was not a character to her, but a person who was familiar. I was not sure if it had to do with my looks or my dedication; it was difficult to have that bond with anyone else, even among the theater group. Most of them had looked at me, even subtly, like I was a source of intrigue.

起初，嘉嘉看起来像个典型的学生：马尾、齐刘海、制服一丝不苟。但抓住我心的，却是她谈话的内容。我立刻感觉我们可以一聊就是几个小时——虽非演员出身，她对表演诸法也略知一二；她看出我为表演付出的努力，知道表演并非儿戏，而是一门需要投入的艺术。她知道，在我热衷的事情面前，我会比谁都拼命。于她，我不是舞台上的一个人物，而是一个熟悉的人。无论是因外表，还是因专注，她与我之间很难得地建立起那种联系；即便在戏剧社里，这种亲近也不常有。其他人，或多或少，总把我看作一处可供打量的风景。

After that, she would come to every show I was in, whether the role was large or small, and we would chat afterwards. Naturally, we became closer.

从那以后，她场场来看我的演出，不论角色大小。演出后我们会聊上一阵，理所当然地，我们生出更深的亲近。

Gradually, I began to notice I behaved around her differently, that she was eliciting strange reactions from me, though it was hard to pinpoint when it had all begun. Perhaps it was the time at school camp when we were all waiting in a long, seemingly unending line to the bathroom, and when it was Jia Jia’s turn she held my hand and said, “Let’s just go together,” I felt blood rushing to my face and my neck, and for a moment thought I was experiencing vertigo. I responded with a resolute no. Jia Jia raised her eyebrows, a little confused, and I understood, considering how common it was for girls to share bathrooms at our school. Or it could be the time when Jia Jia fought with her boyfriend, showed up with streaks of tears outside my door, and I found myself wishing, selfishly, that it was not just a fight but an end.

慢慢地，我察觉自己在她面前的反应有了不同，某些奇怪的感觉被她唤起，却难以说清来自何时。或许那是一回学校郊游，大家在通往厕所的长队中耐心等待，轮到她时她牵起我的手说：“我们一起走吧。”刹那间，热潮窜上我的脸颊与脖颈，我仿佛要晕眩，坚定地回绝了她。她挑眉，有些困惑——在我们学校里女生共用洗手间是常事，这反应显得格外突兀。又或是那一次，她与男友吵架，泪痕斑斑出现在我门外，我竟自私地希望那不是一场争吵，而是终结。

Soon after, I chanced upon the film Qi Yue Yu An Sheng. It was showing in all major cinemas in China, with an incredibly stellar cast, including Zhou Dongyu, who has won the Golden Horse award akin to the Asian Oscars. Not knowing the plot of the film in detail, I had phoned Jia Jia to watch it together.

不久后，我偶然听闻《七月与安生》正在各大院线热映——卡司耀眼，周冬雨那样曾获金马奖的演员也在其中。不了解剧情细节的我，便打电话约嘉嘉一同观影。

“Everyone’s talking about how good it is,” I could hardly conceal the passion in my voice. It was rare to chance upon a really good film, and it could even help my own acting skills. But Jia Jia’s sniffles came from the other side of the call. “I can’t go,” she said. “Did you catch a cold?” I asked, even though I knew she did not. “I had a really bad fight with Junwei; I think it’s over,” she revealed, after a pause. Junwei? It took me a while to remember her boyfriend’s name. Boys’ names somehow all sounded the same to me. Maybe it was because I never paid enough attention. Though it was sudden, it did not surprise me. Things had not been smooth between them.

“大家都在说这片好看。”我难掩兴奋。这种难得的好片或许能拓展我的表演视野。电话那头，嘉嘉有些抽泣：“我去不了。”“你感冒了吗？”我问，尽管心知她并非如此。停顿后，她说：“我和君伟大吵一架，好像完了。”君伟——过了好一会儿我才想起她男友的名字。男生的名字对我而言总显得模糊大同，也许是我从未留心。

“Ok, so, you want to talk about it?” Inside, I chastised myself. I was bad at offering comfort. “Not now,” she said, her voice weakening. “Maybe next week.” I could hear the click on the phone as she hung up. Left with nothing else planned for the weekend, I went to watch the movie by myself.

“要不要聊聊？”我在心里责怪自己：我其实不擅长安慰人。“现在不行，”她声音软弱，“也许下周吧。”电话挂断的“咔哒”声里，我突然空下来。周末无所事事，我便自己去了影院。

In the dimly lit film theater, where numerous seats were filled up but not the one beside mine, I sat by the aisle with the uncanny sense of being both alone and overwhelmed. I had bought Jia Jia’s seat in advance, seeing how we would always hang out on weekends. When the film started with the girl best friends from childhood, one boisterous and free-spirited called An Sheng, the other reticent and homely called Qi Yue, I already knew who I saw and what I wanted it to be. There was only one antagonist in the film, and it was the man Jiaming, whom both the girls had fallen for. When he came on the screen, all I felt was anger towards him, even though he could be said to be an attractive man, so much that I left grip marks on the cushioned seats.

影厅里灯光昏暗，座位多被占满，但我旁边那位空着。我选了靠走道的位置，带着一种既孤独又被压迫的感觉。原本我为嘉嘉买了票——我们周末常常一起出去。片头出现了从小玩到大的两个女孩：一位豪爽放纵的安生，另一位含蓄稳重的七月；我立刻知道我要看见谁，也知道我想成为什么。片中唯一的反派，是那个叫家明的男人，两个女孩都为他心动。我只对他生气——即便他可以算得上有魅力；愤怒让我在软垫座椅上留下了指印。

There was one defining difference between me and the two girls, I realized, and that was how a man would never pose a threat in my friendship. For the life of me, I could not understand why the two girls would waste a second being upset over a man. Thankfully, they both decided it was better not to be involved with him. The irony of the story was: An Sheng eventually sought a life of stability and belonging, true to her name, while Qi Yue sought bold adventures to the edge of the world. They each wanted what the other had, though it was not clear if they got what they wanted in the end.

我与片中两位女孩的分野在于：在我看来，男人从不会威胁到我们的友情。我无法理解她们为何会为一个男人耽搁片刻。幸好她们最终都选择不与那个男人纠缠。讽刺的是：安生最终寻得安稳与归属（名如其人），而七月奔向世界的边缘，追求大胆的冒险。她们彼此渴求对方所缺的东西——只是结局是否如愿，影片并未交代清楚。

When I walked out of the theater, I knew why I felt that way towards the man in the movie, towards the two girls, towards myself. I knew why I wanted to be An Sheng, and I wanted Qi Yue and An Sheng to be happy without the man in the picture. The realization traveled through my body, from my legs to the top of my head and my fingertips. I stood by the street even as the red light turned to green, and continued standing there until a middle-aged woman yelled behind me, "Do you want to cross or not?"

走出影院时，我忽然理解了自己对片中男人、对那两位女孩、乃至对自己的情绪。我明白为何我想做安生，也希望安生与七月在没有男人的世界里各自安好。那种觉知像热潮从腿间涌上顶头与指尖，我站在街头，红灯变绿我仍然站着，直到一位中年妇人怒喊：“你要过马路吗？”

My instinct was to call Jia Jia right away or leave her a message. Instead, I went home straight to bed, pulled the blankets over my head, and silenced my phone. I needed some time alone, to think.

我本能想立刻给嘉嘉打电话或留话，但最终还是径直回家，钻进被窝，把手机调成静音。我需要独处，需要思索。

The next week in school, I did not show up at theater practice. I knew Jia Jia would be there after the practice. I wanted to be able to talk to her just like we had in all those days prior, but ever since that movie, something had shifted fundamentally within me. It was like I did not know how to relate to her "normally". Inside, there was now a steady voice that asked questions like: what if she found out how I felt? What if she could tell, somehow, even without me saying a word, the way a police dog would sniff out the contraband at a crime scene? A part of me wished I would never see her again.

下周课间，我没有去参加话剧排练。我知道嘉嘉会在练习后出现。我渴望像以往那般与她对话，但那场电影之后，我内心发生了根本性的变化。仿佛我不知如何再“正常”地与她相处。我心里多了一个平静的声音，反复在问：如果她发现了我心里的感受怎么办？万一她能未言而知地察觉，就像缉毒犬能嗅出违禁品一样？有一部分的我希望再也不要见到她。

Then, out of the blue, a classmate of Jia Jia's came up to me and asked frantically, "Do you know where Jia Jia is? I haven't seen her in school for a few days now." Jia Jia had never been away from school for that long. I checked my phone: a few missed calls from days ago. I ran to her house when the school bell rang, without stopping for breath. When I pressed her doorbell, the back of my throat was burning.

突然，嘉嘉的一个同学慌忙来问我：“你知道嘉嘉在哪儿吗？好几天没见她了。”嘉嘉从未离校这么久。我看手机，注意到几通未接来电，几日前的。下课铃响后我一路奔向她家，气喘吁吁，按下门铃时嗓子似被火焚灼。

*

The apartment was a mess, the furniture was still in the same spot, but bits of snacks and drinks lay all around the living room. Used clothes were strewn around or piled on the seats. The curtains were closed such that the darkness partially descended, resembling a twilight zone. Around her couch were bottles of alcohol, some Baijiu, where the content could go up to 60%.

屋里一片狼藉，家具未动，但零食与杯罐散落一地，衣物或乱堆或随意洒落。窗帘拉得严严实实，暗色像暮色般垂下。沙发周围堆着几瓶酒，白酒瓶里的酒精度高达六十。就我所知，嘉嘉从不喝酒。

"Why are you drinking? Where are your parents?" I sat on the couch beside her. I could see the alcohol stains around me, smell its pungent emanation. As far as I was aware, Jia Jia never drank.

“你怎么喝成这样？你父母呢？”我坐在她旁边的沙发上，闻到酒精刺鼻的气味。

"They're away for a business trip, so I can do whatever I want. I'm old enough anyway."

她答：“他们出差了，家里空着，我想做什么就做什么。我也不小了。”

"What are you doing? Why are you doing this? Is it all for that boy?" I shouted. My fists were balled up. I could not even understand why I was so furious. I shook her by the shoulders, watching her head bob back and forth.

“你在做什么？为啥要这样？都是为了那男的？”我喊起来，拳头紧攥，自己也不明白为何如此愤怒。我抓住她的肩，见她头颅若有若无地晃动。

“I want to be more like you...I wish I were more like you...” she mumbled, her eyelids half-closed, her face red as a beetroot down to her neck.

“我想像你多一点.....我希望我能像你那样.....”她咕哝着，眼皮半垂，脸颊与颈项红得像甜菜。

I took the remaining bottles and emptied the contents into the sink. Jia Jia did not stop me. Her body was limp, beads of sweat forming on her forehead.

我把还剩下的酒瓶全倒进水槽。嘉嘉没有阻止，身体松软，额头渗着汗。

“Are you okay? Should I call the ambulance?” I said it so quickly, I was stumbling over words.

“你还好吗？要不要叫救护车？”我结结巴巴地问。

“Yeah...I’m okay. I’m just a little drunk. I know my limits.”

“嗯.....我没事。我只是有点醉。我知道自己的限度。”她说。

“So, why do you want to be more like me? I don’t understand.”

“那你为什么想像我一样？我不懂。”

“Because you’re free...and I’m not,” she said slowly as she held up both of her arms, like in prayer or defeat.

“因为你是自由的.....而我不是。”她慢慢说着，双臂举起，像是在祈祷，又像是彻底认输。

I went to the kitchen to get her water and a wet towel. I heard it was important to keep drunk people hydrated. My hands were shaking when I poured the boiled water into her cup. I had to pause for a moment to stabilize myself.

我走进厨房，给她倒水，又拧了一条湿毛巾。我听说让醉酒的人保持水分很重要。把开水倒进杯子的时候，我的手一直在发抖，不得不暂停片刻，让自己稳住。

“What’s this freedom thing you’re talking about? Jia Jia, you’re so wasted,” I asked as I smoothed the wet towel on her forehead.

“你知道自由是什么吗？嘉嘉，你现在糟成这样。”我把湿毛巾摊在她额上。

“I know what I’m talking about. You’re immune to the problems I’m having, like some kind of God.” When Jia Jia said this, it came out sharp, between a laugh and a cry. I felt goosebumps rising up the top of my arms.

“我知道我在说什么。你对我现在这些问题免疫，像个神。”她说这话时，语气里夹着笑又带着哭，浑身发出一阵鸡皮疙瘩。

“I don’t quite understand?”

“我不太明白？”

“You’re not stressed about relationships the way I do. You never had a crush! You never had to worry about those boys.”

“你不会为恋爱烦恼。你从没暗恋过任何人！你不用像我那样担心那些男生。”她说。

“I don’t understand what’s there to worry about them.”

“我真不明白他们有什么好担心的。”我答。

“See? That’s what I mean,” she let out another laugh. “Men...are impossible to deal with. Most men, anyway. We’re too different. Yet, I’m attracted to them. Isn’t it crazy?”

“看？这就是我要说的，”她又笑了一下，“男人.....难以应付。大多数男人，反正是这样。我们很不同，但我偏偏被他们吸引。是不是疯了？”

“Yeah...I mean, no! You’ve confused me. This is about your ex-boyfriend, right?” I tried to be the more rational person.

“嗯.....不，你把我弄糊涂了。这是关于你前男友的事吧？”我尽量理性。

“Maybe...but not just him...a lot of men I knew before and a lot more I'd know after!”

“也许是.....但不只是他.....还有很多以前认识的男人，以后认识的也会多！”她说，身子往下一垮，头几乎贴到地板。我扶住她，让她坐直。

I noticed Jia Jia's body was slouching such that her head was almost close to the ground. I held her upright.

我把还剩下的酒瓶全倒进水槽。嘉嘉没有阻止，身体松软，额头渗着汗。

“Are you sure...are you sure you don't have to go to the hospital?”

“你确定不需要去医院吗？”

“No...I'm just tired...are you listening to me?”

“不.....我只是累了.....你在听我说话吗？”

I held the cup of water up to her mouth so she had to drink it. After a while, her face was returning to its natural color.

我把杯水送到她唇边，让她不得不喝。过了一会儿，她的脸色慢慢恢复。

“Yes, yes, I am always listening...you were talking about men being difficult...” I assured her.

“好，我一直在听.....你在说男人难相处的事。”我安慰到。

“Not difficult, impossible!” Jia Jia pouted like a child in an argument. “Most of them don't have the same interests I do...so I either cling onto the few ones who do, or try to make-do with the rest. Believe me, I hate it too.”

“不，是不可能的事！”嘉嘉像个赌气的孩子撅起嘴，“大多数人没有和我一样的兴趣.....我只好抱住那几个有共同点的人，或者凑合其余的。相信我，我也恨这点。”说完她又笑又哭。

I considered it. I could see what she was saying, even though I could not exactly empathize. Among all the people I knew, the number of men remotely interested in theater was in the clear minority, and among those, the ones who were single, available, and her physical type were even fewer.

我能理解她在说什么，尽管未必能完全共情。在我所认识的人里，真正对戏剧有兴趣的男生寥寥无几；在那些少数里，既单身、又合她口味的又更少。

“What about...being...by yourself? While waiting for the right one?” I feebly suggested.

“那.....等对的人来之前，何不先独处？”我弱弱地建议。

“You know I don't like to be by myself. I don't like to be lonely,” Jia Jia admitted, “You know what I had to do to convince my ex-boyfriend to watch a musical with me? I had to tell him that the actresses were hot. It was crazy. I was crazy.”

“你知道我不喜欢一个人。我不喜欢孤单，”嘉嘉坦白道。“你知道我为了让前男友陪我去看音乐剧，竟然说里面的女演员很性感。太荒唐了。我简直疯了。”

“No, you did not...” I closed my eyes.

“不会吧.....”我闭上了眼睛。

“Or the time when I asked a guy to go to a history museum with me, and he said he's only going because I made him. Not because of anything else like he enjoyed the exhibits...”

“还有一次，我拉一个男生去历史博物馆，他却说只是因为我硬拉着他去的，不是因为真的喜欢展览.....”

I did not know how to reply to this, so I just sat there and looked down at my hands.

我不知道该怎么回应，只好坐在那里，低头盯着自己的手。

“You know...sometimes...I wish I were not into men. I wish...I'm into women! Then maybe I can be with you. But, I can't choose...”

“有时候.....我真希望我不喜欢男人。我希望.....我喜欢女人！那样或许我就能和你在一起。但我不能选择.....”

I stopped moving. My hands. My body. My legs. I wanted to read her expression on her face when she said it. I wanted to say, "I wish you're not into men too." I wanted to clarify with her what exactly she meant by maybe she could be with me. But I could not move. I could not say anything. I waited for what seemed like hours, though when I observed the hands of the clock on the wall, only about fifteen minutes passed by. I could hear every sound that the clock was making. I could hear my breath and her slow breathing. By the time I could move again, Jia Jia had fallen asleep on the couch, using a cushion as her pillow. I could hear her soft snores as she drifted off to dreamland. I gently covered her with a blanket.

我全身僵住，手、身躯、双腿都不再动。恨不得把她脸上的每个表情都读尽。我想说：“我也希望你不喜欢男人。”想和她澄清“或许能和你在一起”究竟是什么意思。但话到嘴边，我哽住了，无法动弹。时间像被拉长，我以为过了几个小时，抬眼看墙上钟表却不过十五分钟。我能听见墙钟的每一下，听见我的呼吸与她浅浅的呼吸。等我终于能动时，嘉嘉已经靠着靠垫沉睡，轻轻打着鼾。我替她把毯子拉好。

*

The next day, I saw Jia Jia at school. She seemed her usual self again. Perhaps the previous day's laughing, crying, and venting had done her some good. When I asked about it, she did not seem to recall what exactly happened that afternoon, only that she got drunk on some baijiu and saw me come into the living room.

第二天，她在学校又是那个模样。也许昨日的哭笑发泄对她有了疗愈。当我问起，她对那天下午的记忆有些模糊，只记得自己喝了白酒，看到我走进客厅。

"Do you remember what you said to me when you were drunk?" I asked.

"你记得你醉了时对我说些什么吗？"我问。

"Um...not really. All I know is when I'm awake, you're already gone," she said. "Did I do anything embarrassing when I was drunk?"

"嗯.....不太记得。醒着时你就走了。"她说，"我是不是在醉酒时做了蠢事？"

I tried to observe her to see if she was lying. I looked at her eyebrows, the way her lips were moving. I did not notice anything unusual. I decided she was telling the truth.

我打量她，试图看出她是否在说谎：眉眼、嘴唇的细微动作。她看起来并无异常。我选择相信她。

"No, no, you did not. You just fell asleep quickly," I finally said. Neither of us mentioned that afternoon again.

"没有，你没做什么。只是睡得很快。"我说。我们没有再提起那天的事。

*

Things were normal again between us. For the rest of the school semester, Jia Jia and I were hanging out like best friends again. When the new semester began, Jia Jia started seeing a new guy. At first, I thought he would be the same as the guys before him, but to my surprise, he was someone who also enjoyed going to theater shows and musicals, and attentive to Jia Jia. They often came to my shows together. The new guy was from a neighboring boys' school, and the same age as us. Gradually, I noticed that Jia Jia was embodying that boisterous energy usually associated with me. It was hard to dislike him, though I wanted to initially.

之后一切恢复常态。学期余下时间，嘉嘉与我像昔日好友般相处。新学期开始，嘉嘉又交了个新男友。起初我以为他会与之前那些男人无异，但令我惊讶的是，他也喜欢看戏剧、音乐剧，并且对嘉嘉体贴。他们常一同来观我的演出。那男孩来自邻校，和我们同年。慢慢地，我注意到嘉嘉变得更像我那种外放的活力——我本想讨厌他，却发现几分难以讨厌。

Before graduation, I asked the theater group if we could stage our version of Qi Yue Yu An Sheng, and they all thought it was such an amazing idea. I was asked to play An Sheng, while another girl in our group, a quieter and more reserved one, played Qi Yue. Unlike Jia Jia, she had short shoulder-length hair and a rounder face.

毕业前，我提议把《七月与安生》搬上我们的舞台，话剧社人人都觉得这是个好主意。我被选演安生，社里另一位性格较内敛的女孩来演七月。她剪了短短的齐肩发，脸庞更圆润，不像嘉嘉那般外放。

During the day of the performance, Jia Jia and her boyfriend sat in the first row in the audience. When delivering the iconic lines, such as when Qi Yue said tearfully to An Sheng, "I want freedom, I want to be like you," or when Jiaming confided to An Sheng, "You and Qi Yue are the same. You both like to hide," I tried to imagine what Jia Jia was thinking. Perhaps, she too was thinking of that particular afternoon when she got drunk at home and accidentally said many things. Perhaps she was not thinking of anything, and was just enjoying the show and my acting.

演出当天，嘉嘉与她男友坐在第一排。台上，经典台词一一被念出：比如七月含泪对安生说的“我想要自由，我想像你那样”，或是家明对安生说的“你和七月一样；你们都喜欢隐藏。”我尽力揣摩嘉嘉此刻的心思。或许她又回想起那日醉酒的下午，或许她只是沉浸在戏里，在看我的表演。

The play ended with the famous line from the movie: the most beautiful thing in the world is when you meet another version of yourself. I looked at the actor for Qi Yue as though looking at my reflection in the mirror. I could hear the audience clapping, cheering, whistling. I could hear Jia Jia's voice clearly among them. When all the actors and actresses walked out to take a bow, I saw Jia Jia and her boyfriend both applauding as much as they could. I noticed they wore the same large smiles on their faces, showing their teeth and dimples.

演出最后落在电影里那句名台词上：“世间最美好的事，就是你遇见了另一个自己。”我凝视着饰演七月的演员，就像望着镜子里的自己。台下掌声、欢呼声、口哨声此起彼伏，我清楚地听见其中夹杂着嘉嘉的声音。当所有演员走出来谢幕时，我看见嘉嘉和她的男朋友也拼命鼓掌。他们脸上挂着同样灿烂的笑容，露出牙齿和酒窝。

*

The stage rained with roses afterwards, too many for the actors to keep, so we had to donate some to the school. I waved goodbye as the curtains were drawn, as I knew it would be the last time I would act in a while.

舞台上下起了玫瑰雨，花瓣多到我们不得不将一些捐给学校。我挥手告别，心里知道，这大概会是我这一阵子最后一次上台了。

The Unsent Flowers

未送出的花

By 浮光 [ENG > 中文]

01

Lin,

Please don't be mad at me. I didn't mean to shout at you that day—really, I didn't. I was so tense; I was terrified, but I was more afraid of losing you. I actually didn't care about that Prometheus Project itself, but when you said you wanted to guard humanity's spark, I followed you. I never expected you to treat this matter as so important. I'm sorry—next time I operate a guardian ship I'll be extra, extra careful. From the mothership I can only try so hard to imagine where you are. Please don't ignore me, okay? I know you're just angry with me—please talk to me. I'm piloting Guardian-ship Beta alone; it's boring.

Love,
Leng

林，

请别生我的气。那天我真的不是故意对你吼的——真的不是。我当时太紧张了，既害怕又害怕失去你。其实我对那个普罗米修斯计划本身并不在意，但当你说要守护人类的火种时，我就跟着你了。我万万没想到你会把这件事看得如此重要。对不起——下次驾驶守护舰时我会格外、格外小心。在母舰上我只能拼命想象你的位置。别再冷落我了好吗？我知道你只是生我的气——求你跟我说话。独自驾驶守护舰Beta号太无聊了。

爱你的
凌

02

Lin,

It's been so long already—are you still refusing to talk to me? Can you stop making such a big deal out of everything? I've already apologized, and the Prometheus spark is safe—what more do you want? I know you got my messages on Guardian-ship Alpha, so why haven't you replied all this time?! You used to do this too: every time we fight you give me the silent treatment. I hate it when you sulk; after every argument it's always me begging and pleading to make you forgive me. Don't you know I'm exhausted too? I'm hurt as well. You don't understand—you only care about yourself. You always say to me, “Little Leng, you don't understand.” Fine, you understand so well—then go and be in love by yourself!

Damn it, answer me!!!

—Leng (angry)

林，

这么久了——你还是不愿意和我说话吗？能不能别事事都闹得天翻地覆？我已经道歉了，普罗米修斯火种也安全了——你还想要什么？我知道你在阿尔法守护舰上收到我的消息了，为什么一直不回我？！你以前也这样：每次吵架就对我冷战。我最讨厌你这种闹别扭的脾气；每次争执后总是我苦苦哀求才换来你的原谅。难道你不知道我也精疲力竭吗？我也受伤了。你根本不懂——你只顾着自己。你总对我说“小凌，你不懂”。好啊，既然你这么懂——那就自己去恋爱吧！

见鬼，快回答我！！！！

——很生气（哄不好的那种）的凌

Lin,

After all this time, I think I'm finally starting to accept the news that you've gone. You're something else—colliding with an asteroid and still managing to keep the comms intact. I still remember when we took spaceship operations class as kids. I could always find shortcuts and scrape a passing grade, then sneak off to hang out with you. You were different—you were meticulous, always perfecting every little detail. Back then I didn't get you; I thought you were boring, like those old-school students in China who insisted on scoring full marks. But now I understand: when you perfect the details in practice, you'll have more room for error during the real thing. I was just looking through the operation manual you prepared before your flight test—your notes are so good, your handwriting so clear; I learned a lot just reading them. Although your handwriting still looked best when you wrote me love letters, haha. I regret not keeping all those letters on me; now I can only flip through your notes to remember what we were.

Missing you,
Leng

林，

这么久以来，我终于开始接受你离开的消息。你真是与众不同——撞上小行星还能保持通讯畅通。我至今记得小时候上飞船操作课的情景。我总能找到捷径勉强及格，然后溜出去和你混在一起。而你截然不同——你一丝不苟，永远在完善每个细节。那时我不懂你，觉得你枯燥得像中国那些执着满分的老派学生。如今才明白：当你在演练中把细节做到极致，实战时反而能容忍更多失误。刚才翻看你的飞行测试前准备的操作手册——笔记写得如此工整，字迹如此清晰，光是阅读就让我受益匪浅。不过你最漂亮的字还是你写情书时，哈哈。后悔没把那些信都留着，如今只能翻看笔记来回忆我们曾经的模样。

想你，
凌

03

Lin,

Please talk to me? I know I said some awful things last time. I regret it so much. I'm begging you—don't ignore me. I'm really scared. If you're still angry at me, at least send a "Go to hell" or "You bastard"—anything—so I know you're okay up on Guardian-ship Alpha.

—Leng (desperately hoping for any news)

林，

求求你跟我说说话好吗？我知道上次说了些难听的话，我真的非常后悔。求求你——别再无视我了。我真的很害怕。如果你还在生我的气，至少回个“滚蛋”或“混蛋”——随便什么都行——让我知道你在阿尔法守护舰上平安无事。 ——迫切盼着任何消息的凌

Lin,

I picked up a little treasure last week. Haha, don't be jealous—it's not a new person. After so long, a small part of the oxygen system and food supply you jettisoned actually didn't drift away. Of course, your operation manual notes helped a little: I nudged the Guardian-ship's orbit to cross the path of those drifting modules.

I didn't take much—just one of your ship's oxygen masks and the apple milkshake you loved. I sleep with the mask every night now; I swear it smells better than any of ours on this ship. I'm sleeping better and having fewer nightmares. I haven't dared drink the milkshake yet; I'm saving it for my birthday next month. Without you here, I don't even want to celebrate. Every birthday just makes our age gap grow another year—I could be your aunt by now, haha. If you were here you'd probably pull my ear and say, "You ask for a beating, don't you? Shameless."

I wish you would pull my ear one more time. Even if it's in a dream.

—Leng (who found a little treasure)

林,

上周我捡到个宝贝。哈哈，别嫉妒——不是新对象。这么久以来，在你抛弃的氧气系统和食物补给系统，竟有小部分没飘走。当然，你的操作手册提示帮了点忙：我略施小计就把守护舰轨道调整到了残留系统的必经之路上。

我没拿多少——只取了你飞船上的氧气面罩和你最爱的苹果奶昔。如今我每晚都戴着面罩入睡，发誓它比这艘船上任何面罩都香。睡眠变好了，噩梦也少了。奶昔还没敢喝，留着下个月生日时享用。没有你，我甚至不想庆祝。每个生日都让我们的年龄差又拉大一岁——现在我都快当你姑妈了，哈哈。要是你在场，肯定会揪我耳朵说：“你这是找打吧？厚脸皮。”

真希望你能再揪一次我的耳朵。哪怕只是在梦里也好。

——凌（发现宝藏版）

Lin,

I had a dream about you. I dreamt that when we were discussing how to deal with the asteroid, you stroked the block of combustible-ice model I had tucked onto your ship. I also dreamed that when you asked me to cut the video link, your lips parted and you softly said, "I love you. I'm sorry."

But why didn't you tell me your actual plan? Why didn't you say goodbye properly? I remember at the end of the video you told me to rest well, that it would be hard afterward. I didn't take it seriously then. Now I understand: without your presence, every minute and every second is so hard to bear.

Combustible ice isn't truly unburnable; it's just trapped in a cage of water molecules—like I'm trapped aboard this guardian ship.

—Leng (both happy and sad from dreaming of you)

林,

我梦见你了。梦见我们讨论如何应对小行星时，你轻抚着我藏在你飞船上的可燃冰模型。还梦见你让我切断视频连接时，你微启双唇轻声说：“我爱你。对不起。”

可为何不告诉我真实计划？为何不好好道别？记得视频尾声你说要我好好休息，之后会很艰难。当时我没当真。如今才明白：失去你的存在，每一分每一秒都如此煎熬。

可燃冰并非真正不可燃，它只是被困在水分子构筑的牢笼里——就像我被困在这艘守护舰上。

——凌（梦见你时，既欢欣又悲伤）

Lin,

I've been very frustrated today. If only I'd studied harder back then—maybe I could have thought of a better solution when the asteroid struck. I trusted you so completely; I never suspected your plan. You told me to cut the signal, so I cut the signal. You told me to lower the shields, so I lowered the shields. You told me to change course to a new trajectory, so I changed course.

In college our professor explained the twin-star model: two stars of similar mass sharing a common center of gravity, flying stably around each other. I once slipped you a note in class: "Baby, are you my twin star?" You took the note with a frown, read it, then—after seeing the words—smiled a little, scolded me with your eyes, and pretended to be serious as you tapped the textbook.

But clever as you are, you forgot that our Prometheus mission wasn't a binary system. The mothership was so huge—if you could only have come close to the asteroid and locked it to Guardian-ship Alpha, that would have been enough. You're always so capable; you subdued unruly me—so why couldn't you handle an arrogant little asteroid?

—Leng (frustrated)

林，

今天我感到无比懊恼。要是当初我更用功些——或许小行星撞击时我就能想出更好的对策。我曾如此彻底地信任你，从未怀疑过你的计划。你说切断信号，我就切断信号；你说降低护盾，我就降低护盾；你说改变航向，我就改变航向。

大学时教授讲解双星模型：两颗质量相近的恒星共享重心，稳定地绕彼此运行。我曾在课堂上偷偷递给你纸条：“宝贝，你是我的双星吗？”你皱着眉头接过纸条，读完后——看到字句时——微微一笑了一下，用眼神责备我，又假装严肃地敲了敲课本。

但聪慧如你，却忘了我们的普罗米修斯任务并非双星系统。母舰如此庞大——若你曾靠近小行星并将其锁定在阿尔法护卫舰上，本该万事俱备。你向来游刃有余，驯服了桀骜的我，为何偏偏征服不了这颗傲慢的小行星？

——凌（懊恼懊恼懊恼）

Lin,

We have already left the Milky Way. Next month we'll reach Andromeda. When we were kids you always said Andromeda was the best constellation because you were born under it. Who knew humanity would choose Andromeda as the destination for the Prometheus Project. Frankly, if everything perished so be it. Even the sun has an end; what is there to mourn in the finite lifespan of a species? You always called me "chaotic evil," but you know what—I adore your "lawful good." I adore the way you restrain yourself in bed and the quietness of your breath.

Sometimes I truly hate the mothership, I hate the Prometheus Project, and I hate your meticulousness when you bear responsibility. Why must we keep our promises? Even if the Prometheus Project fails, those humans still out in the solar system can't do anything to us. You chose the survival of the human species over me. I never doubted your love, but it hurt. Why did you have to shoulder fate? Why couldn't you escape with me? Why couldn't human history end with our love?

—Leng (heartbroken)

林，

我们已离开银河系。下个月将抵达仙女座。儿时你总说仙女座是最美的星座，因你生于其下。谁料人类竟将它选作普罗米修斯计划的目的地。坦白说，若万物终将消亡，那便随它去吧。连太阳都有终结，何必为物种有限的生命哀悼？你总说我是“混乱邪恶”，但你知道吗——我深爱你的“守序善良”。我深爱你在床上克制的模样，深爱你安静的呼吸。

有时我真心憎恨母舰，憎恨普罗米修斯计划，憎恨你肩负责任时那份过分严谨。为何非要信守承诺？纵使普罗米修斯计划失败，那些滞留太阳系的人类也无法伤害我们。你选择人类的存续而非我。我从未怀疑过你的爱，但这爱如此疼痛。为何非要背负命运？为何不能与我逃离？为何人类历史不能终结于我们的爱？ ——凌（心碎中）

Lin,

Sometimes I feel foolish. Only now do I understand—you weren't ignorant of the twin-star model. You simply refused to take a single risk. You jettisoned the oxygen and food supplies; you left no way out for yourself. Maybe you were afraid I'd still do the same as before—risk everything to fly toward you during one of your emergency flight lessons. I regret letting you know about my piloting skills; if you hadn't known, you mightn't have chosen to throw away the chance of survival just to keep me from risking my neck to save you.

Perhaps you didn't do it solely for me; after all, a twin-ship docking under those conditions had little chance of success. If it failed, the mothership carrying humanity's last spark would have no protection.

—Leng (torn)

林，

有时我感到愚蠢。直到此刻我才明白——你并非不知晓双星模型。你只是拒绝承担任何风险。你抛弃了氧气和食物补给，给自己断绝了退路。或许你害怕我仍会重蹈覆辙——在你的紧急飞行训练课上，不顾一切飞向你。我后悔让你知道我的飞行技术；若你不知情，或许就不会为了阻止我冒险救你，而选择抛弃生存的机会。

或许你并非只为我而为；毕竟在那种条件下双船对接成功率微乎其微。若失败，载着人类最后希望的母舰将失去所有防护。

——凌（撕裂版）

Lin,

The mothership has finally reached its intended destination. I've set up the automatic location broadcast—when the mothership lands on the new planet, we'll truly become a binary system. For humanity's future, I've done everything I possibly could. I don't know if you're satisfied, but I've exhausted myself.

The roses were grown from seeds I secretly brought on board the guardian ship; I even used your oxygen mask as a pot. The mask is stained with my tears and a little rusted, but used as a planter it has an oddly vintage beauty. I had planned that when the mothership touched down, I'd hold the roses and walk to you to propose. Under Andromeda's new sun, with the stars as witness and the ground beneath us, I would vow our future for humanity to see. Too bad you never gave me that chance. It's okay, Lin. We don't have to be twin stars. If you can't fly to me, then I'll fly to you.

Lin, I'm coming.

Love,
Leng

林，

母舰终于抵达了预定目的地。我已设置自动定位广播——当母舰降落新星球时，我们将真正成为双星系统。为了人类的未来，我已竭尽所能。不知你是否满意，但我已精疲力竭。

那些玫瑰是从我偷偷带上守护舰的种子培育而成的；我甚至用你的氧气面罩当花盆。面罩上沾着我的泪痕，略带锈迹，但作为花盆却透着奇特的复古美感。我曾计划在母舰降落时，捧着玫瑰走向你求婚。在仙女座的新日之下，以群星为名，以大地为证让人类的新未来见证我们的爱情。

可惜你从未给我这个机会。没关系，林。我们不必成为双子星。若你无法飞向我，那我便飞向你。

林，我来了。

爱你的，
凌

Epilogue

Lin and Leng are the only two guardians of humanity's Prometheus Project. The Prometheus Project is an effort to escort human genes aboard a mothership to Andromeda so humanity won't be extinguished as the sun ages into a white dwarf.

"Lin" is the name of someone I love; her name carries many beautiful stories. Here I use one of them and pair it with the surname Lin as the character's name.

"Leng" comes from a play with characters in my own name—the adjacent character is chosen as the other protagonist's name.

The fictional narrator of these letters, after the loss of their beloved, moves through the "five stages of grief." This plot progression follows the Kübler-Ross model introduced by Elizabeth Kübler-Ross in her 1969 book On Death and Dying: denial, anger, bargaining, depression, and acceptance.

The title The Unsent Flowers uses the rose as that bouquet to pay tribute to my favorite book, The Little Prince: "C'est le temps que tu as perdu pour ta rose qui fait ta rose si importante. (It is the time you have lost for your rose that makes your rose so important.)"

The accompanying image is from NASA's birthday series "What Did Hubble See on Your Birthday?": Galaxy M81. The arms of the "grand-design" spiral galaxy M81 are filled with young, bluish, hot stars. The greenish regions in the image are bright, gaseous clouds where new stars are forming—hinting that humanity has left the solar system for a younger stellar neighborhood.

This piece is written as a birthday gift for someone I love, so the illustration is the sky Hubble saw on her birthday.

尾声 林与凌是人类普罗米修斯计划仅存的两位守护者。该计划旨在将人类基因护送至飞船母舰，驶向仙女座星系，以避免太阳演化成白矮星时人类文明的灭绝。

“林”是我所爱之人的名字，承载着诸多动人故事。此处我选用其中一段，与姓氏“林”结合，作为角色的名字。

“凌”则源于我名字中字的变体——相邻字被选作另一位主角的名字。

这些书信的虚构叙述者在痛失挚爱后，经历了“悲伤五阶段”。这一情节发展遵循伊丽莎白·库伯勒-罗斯在1969年著作《论死亡与临终》中提出的库伯勒-罗斯模型：否认、愤怒、讨价还价、抑郁与接受。

书名《未寄之花》以玫瑰花束致敬我最爱的《小王子》：“正是你为玫瑰付出时间，才使它如此重要。”

配图选自NASA生日系列“哈勃望远镜在你的生日那天看到了什么？”：M81星系。这幅“大设计”螺旋星系M81的旋臂中，遍布着年轻、湛蓝而炽热的恒星。图像中泛绿的区域是明亮的气态星云，新星正在此处诞生——暗示人类已离开太阳系，前往更年轻的恒星邻域。

本文作为献给挚爱之人的生日礼物，插图正是哈勃望远镜在她生日当天观测到的星空。

恶心 Gross

作者：阿南西 [ 中文 > ENG ]

男人翻动她的提琴。很好的琴，他称赞道，值好几万。那是九十年代，几万块对一个工薪家庭是一笔不小的开支。男人倚在扶手椅上，他已衰老得无法直起身来，此时却兴致盎然。音乐是他的毕生所爱，她想，心中油然而生一股崇敬之情。

The man was tossing her violin. Pure gold baby, he praised, must worth tens of thousands. It was the 90s, tens of thousands were no small sum for her parents' pay grade. Frail and old, he sat crooked in his armchair, looked utterly fascinated. Music must be his life, she thought, taken by awe.

男人枯瘦得像是行将就木。在十岁以前，她从未见过这么老的老人。他的琴艺据说十分高超，全盛时期曾斩获无数大奖。他膝下子女成荫，门下桃李不绝，家中到处挂着他和师母年轻时言笑晏晏的相片，好一双金童玉女。

He was, to her, as old as a withering corpse. Before she turned ten, she had never seen anyone so old. They said, back in the day, he was an extraordinary violinist, and he'd won countless awards. He'd had many pupils, like a fruit-bearing tree that keeps on yielding and offering. A portrait photo hang in his study/living room: it was him, the tutor, with the tutoress by his side, a perfect couple of fame and youth.

师母是做他学生认识的。一段佳话，他们赞道。琴童们起先是师从于师母，琴艺达到一定程度，师母的学生便悉数转介给师父了。他一堂课要比师母贵好几百元。

The tutoress had once been his pupil, too. Romances, they sang. The pupils were first taught by the tutoress, and as they grew more mature they were referred to him. Besides, his session costs several hundred yuans more than the tutoress'.

她没有见过如此德高望重的清癯老人。他果真气质不凡，尽管，他的琴技实已衰朽如他的躯干。指尖一触到琴弦，便颤抖如一口跌宕起伏的浓痰，布满老人斑的皮肤竭力维系着一种尊严。毕竟，他们都称他是小提琴界的泰斗。这是她头一次学到“泰斗”这个词。泰斗的演奏自然不会错。

She'd never, ever seen a man so old, so venerable. Indeed, He was something else. Although she could hardly hear it from his violin skill, which must had grown as decrepit as his own physique. The moment his bony fingertips touched the strings, they trembled like the slimy loogie old people were always trying to hawk up from their throat. His skin, wrinkly and spotted with age, struggling to maintain some semblance of dignity. After all, they called him the maestro. It was the first time she'd even heard this word, maestro. The performance of the maestro wouldn't go wrong, would it?

她是一瞬间就接受了矛盾之处。老师连琴把都快握不住，从来无法在琴弦上拉出一个平滑的音。此起彼伏的颤抖以波涛之势席卷了演奏家的浑身，从枯木的躯干，到无一丝肉的臂骨，最后是冰冷如爪的手。她感到阵阵目眩；世上怎么会有这么老的老人。激起了她对死亡的恶心。

Instantly, she found it easier to accept the inconsistencies. Her tutor nearly dropped his instrument while he played, and he could hardly make out a smooth note on that poor thing. Waves of tremors swept through the performer's entire body—from the dead trunk of his torso to the hollow, fleshless arms, to his bone-cold talon-hands. She was nauseated to such sight of death.

How could anyone be so old? It made her feel gross.

她和家里的老人谈不上亲。外公婆总是捆绑出现于家宴的餐桌，外婆眼口浑浊，外公心心念念着牌局，从来懒得说些什么。爷爷一家在在外地，操江西口音，讲得话她一句都听不懂。除了精神交流，不算早些年外婆接她放学时牵过手，她从来没和老人有过肢体接触。

She wasn't exactly close to her grandparents. Her maternal grandparents usually appeared together at family dinners, grandmother with her cloudy eyes, grandfather preoccupied with his card games, never bothering to say much. Her paternal grandparents lived elsewhere, their thick Jiangxi accent making their words incomprehensible to her. Apart from the rare moments of emotional connection, and perhaps the occasional handholding when her grandmother picked her up from school years ago, she had never shared any physical intimacy with them.

他的皮肤是冰冷的。她记得，因为他很喜欢碰触。起初是握她的手，教她把位和姿势。老师多么慈祥啊，她想。老师家的大门总是敞开，人来人往，有时是师母，有时是家里的大儿子，有时是别的学生。比她还小的，与她同年的，已经眉目成熟的——人人都颇有小演奏家之风。家长的神情总是谦逊的，而对着琴童，他们便流露出紧张和期待。一朵阴云凝聚在孩子的太阳穴；稍有不慎，形势就急转直下，野心希望沦作愧怍失望，拿弓的小手不免挨上几下打骂。她的母亲却是特殊的，并不对她格外关注，只是闲坐在客厅另一端的椅子上读报。整张摊开的报纸，把成年女人的上半身遮得严严实实。

His skin was ice-cold. She remembered, because he loved to touch her. At first, it was holding her hands, teaching her the hand positions and body postures. How kind my tutor was, she thought. The front door of his house was always open, people coming and going—sometimes the tutoress, sometimes his eldest son, sometimes other pupils. Some younger than her, some her age, the look in their brows and eyes already maturing—every one of them possessed the air of a young violinist. The parents of the pupils would come along. They always looked humble, but when their eyes turned to their children, they radiated nervous anticipation. There were dark clouds gathering at the pupil's temples; a slightest misstep could send everything into a downward spiral, where ambition and hope would crumble into shame and disappointment, and the tiny bow-holding hands would suffer a couple of slaps and scoldings. Her mother, however, was an exception. She paid her no special attention, merely sitting idly in a chair at the far end of the living room, reading her newspaper. The spread-out paper completely blocked the upper half of the grown woman's body from view.

他的触碰越来越多，不再止于教学了。那逐渐变成一种爱抚。她能感觉到老师的喜爱。他称赞她：你的耳朵是千里挑一的。你的乐感很好。要是你更刻苦一些就好了。不过没关系，她想，老师依然是喜欢我的。

His touches increased, no longer restricted to teaching. They gradually turned into some sort of caresses. She could feel the tutor's affection. He loved to praise her. Your ears are one in a thousand. Your sense of music is excellent. If only you worked a bit harder. But it didn't matter, she thought. The tutor still preferred me.

在学校，她没有特别交好的朋友。她年轻气盛，鼻孔朝天，学校的写作社，没有一人是她瞧的起的。她唯独喜欢同年长的人交往。她唯一敬重和崇拜的就是老师。

She had no particularly close friends at school. Young and headstrong, she looked down on her peers. In the school's writing club, not a single person held her interest. She preferred only to associate with those older than herself. At that age, her tutor was the only person she truly revered.

有一次，她和母亲外出，母亲被一个陌生男人摸了屁股。她听见母亲发出一声惊叫，继而做出满不在乎的样子。她们娘儿俩相依为命，母亲总是这样说。没有男人可以依靠，这种事情总是难免的。又不是少了一块肉。

One time, when she and her mother were out, a stranger groped her mother's buttocks. Her mother let out a startled cry, yet quickly tried to act as if nothing had happened. They only have each other, her mother would always say. Without a man to lean on, such things are bound to happen. It isn't like someone took a chunk of flesh from her.

她感到一种报复的快感。成年后，她头一次向母亲诉说。母亲出奇地平静：我也经历过。然而，紧接着，母亲的脸皮拧起，风云突变。她神色忿忿，语带挖苦。你到底哪儿被摸了嘛？有好不得了了嘛？原话她记不清了。那不过是她和母亲关系崩解的导火索之一。那样密密缝的母女联盟，如今名存实亡了。那不是她们任何一方的责任。然而，没有人会为代际创伤支偿代价。

To that, she felt a vindictive thrill. For the first time since becoming an adult, she confided in her mother. Her mother, who was surprisingly calm, merely said: I've been there.

That was not all. All of a sudden, mother snapped, her expression darkened and bitter. Where exactly did he touch you? Was it really that bad, huh?

She couldn't recall the exact words. After that, their unbreakable mother-daughter bond became a shadow of what it once had been. It wasn't the fault of either of them. Yet no one was to blame for the inter-generational traumas they shared.

你不知道我小时候怎么过的。母亲语带怨恨。你外婆是疯子，自从十六岁起就罹患精神分裂，从来没管过我们。我那时候小，什么都不懂，吃了亏也没处说。她心想：这是否是母亲在暗示，言下之意，不知道被多少男人摸过。又不是什么光彩的事，她想起父亲淡淡的言辞，如今你母亲也疯了，你要多多体谅她。别乱声张。她带着一丝快意地想，现在我也疯了，我们三代人都是疯子。这个家里唯一不疯的人是父亲。最恨的也是父亲。

You have no idea what my childhood was like. Mother's voice carried resentment. Your grandmother was crazy — schizophrenia since she was sixteen, never once a mother to me. I was too young back then, knew nothing, and had no one to turn to when wronged.

She couldn't help but wonder. Was mother hinting at something? Was she implying she'd been touched by countless men? It wasn't something to be proud of. She recalled her father's words: Your mother's gone mad now. You must be understanding. Keep it to yourself. She thought with twisted satisfaction: now I've gone mad too. Three generations of loonies in one big familial loony bin. The only sane one remained is her father. She hated him the most.

我们这些孤身一人的女人呵，走到哪儿都会被摸。大抵每个幸存者都曾经这样反省：当时为什么没有反抗呢？或许拒绝了，老师就不会继续了。一定是我误解了老师的好意。一定是我的纵容招致了这样的结果。她就这样一遍遍在心里面自我剖析，折磨自己。

We women who walk the earth alone. Wherever we go, we get molested. Almost every survivor has asked themselves this: why didn't I fight back then? Perhaps if I had refused, the tutor wouldn't have continued. I must have misunderstood the tutor's good intentions. I let it happen—that's why it happened.

That was exactly how she ruminated. She dissected her thoughts over and over, tormenting herself.

她还有一个更大的恐惧。潜意识里，她是否是为了维系老师的青睐，才属意老师摸她呢？她反复地对自己说服，她对于肢体触碰是无所谓的。老师也没有很过分。只是在师生的界限外稍微地逾越了一点点。她凝视着楼下攀升得鲜妍欲滴的茶花，每一次欲言又止不去拒绝，她的惶惑都在爬升，活物似地在胃里的蠢动。比起老师的恩情，这根本不算什么。况且，老师是那么欣赏她，在她少女时期根本没有任何一个懂得赏识她的长者偶像。是呀，她不会成为第二个房思琪；她的苦难不够格做房思琪。窸窸窣窣苟到现在，已经不可能蝴蝶破茧，但尚能做一辈子毛虫。

There was an even greater fear. Deep down, was she allowing the teacher to caress her merely to maintain his favor? She tried to convince herself that physical contact meant nothing to her. Tried repeatedly. After all, the tutor hadn't been overly intrusive. It was just a slight overstep.

She gazed down at the lush camellias blooming along the outside walls of the apartment building. Each time she hesitated to stop him, she felt her stomach wriggle and squirm, as if something was growing inside of her. She was too deeply in debt to the tutor's kindness to blame him. Not to mention, he admired her so. She'd never had a mentor who truly recognized her when she needed it the most. Surely, she wouldn't become another Fang Siqi. Her misery wasn't big enough. She could never emerge as a butterfly from her cocoon, not anymore. Perhaps she should go on as a caterpillar for the rest of her life.

她隐晦推开老师的枯瘦冰凉的手，过于含蓄而不能称之为拒绝。她用眼神去求助坐在房间另一头专心致志看报的母亲。母亲啊，你可知道我现在最需要你，而我发不出任何声音，无法打破这沉默，一旦说出，肮脏的秘密就会成真，老师会颜面扫地，父亲支付的昂贵学费也将打水漂。

How shyly she pushed away the tutor's deadly cold hands. They were probably too subtle to be count as refusal. Her eyes sought help from her mother, who sat engrossed in the newspaper at the far end of the room. Mother, do you know how desperately I need you now? Yet I cannot utter a sound, unable to break this silence. For if I speak, the sordid half-truth will become truth—the tutor's reputation shall be ruined, and the dear fees father paid for my sessions shall all be wasted like water down the drain.

我是这么不检点的一个女孩子。从小妈妈就爱骂我不检点：居然穿这么紧身的短裤，显得你的屁股那么性感。苍蝇不叮无缝的蛋，是女人理所应当受过的家教。从小到大没有恋过爱，不读言情，只看过录影带，其实我根本不知道什么是你们口中的性或者性魅力。你那么大个人，你自己就一点责任没有吗？母亲竟脱口而出。妈妈的面孔是一种嫌恶的扭曲，仿佛她错把失仪当作失贞，大事化了小事化无。你以为你还是小孩子吗？来了月经就是成年人了！她的鲁钝令家人蒙羞。好奇怪，为什么女人十多岁就必须懂事，然而却不被给予资格对人生自决，例如她想要在考试前夕看迷幻乐队演出，想离家出走，想跳楼，都只被嘲笑幼稚可笑。

Guess I am just a shameless girl. Ever since I was little, Mom loved scolding me for being indecent: how dare you wear such tight shorts, making your butt look so sexy! Flies don't land on seamless eggs—that's the kind of proper upbringing women are supposed to endure. I've never been in love, had no interest in romances, only watched pornographic videos. Truthfully, I have no idea what sex or sexual appeal is. You're a big girl yourself, aren't you responsible for what happened? That was what mother blurted out to her. What, you think you're still a child? Getting your period makes you an adult already! Her naivety would only bring shame upon her family. (Strange, how women must act responsibly in their teens yet are denied the right to determine their lives—like going to a psychedelic band concert before an exam, running away from home, or even jumping off a building. Wanting these only gets you laughter for being childish.)

那些危急的时刻，整张油墨印刷的报纸大鹏展翅，母亲上半身都缩在符号的堡垒后面，保护得严严实实。没有任何风吹草动引起她的警觉。女儿就在她的鼻子底下被猥亵，而母亲沉浸于社会承诺的岁月静好。堡垒后面发生了什么？对于古典音乐的幻想的全面破灭。

In those moments, the printed newspaper spread its ink-stained wings like a giant, soaring bird. Her mother nestled behind this fortress of symbols, perfectly shielded from being alert. While daughter was being molested right under her nose, the mother was reveling in the dreams of a beautiful future. What on earth happened behind that fortress? The complete shattering of her music dream.

二十岁后，她变得很喜欢伯格曼。你看，身为一家人哪怕守在身畔，也无法触及那里最痛切的黑暗。正因我们是家人，所以才会这样无能为力，她深信不疑着。

As she turned twenty, she grew to love Bergman. You see, even when family stay by each other's side, they can't reach the deepest darkness. Precisely because we are family, we are helpless to each other. That was what she came to believe.

现在，她知道这是一种由来自于个人经历来的习得性无助。很后来她才发现，她内化了许多，比如身体触摸。她开始变得喜欢触摸别人。初中的时候，她变得很喜欢摸别人的脸。女孩子们娇嗔道：你真好色。人家甚至流传她是女同性恋，因为她对女孩子毛手毛脚。后来，她又在借宿的教会遇到别的老男人。他还穿着摇滚乐队的T恤衫，都已经头发花白了。女孩子们说，别靠近他，他最喜欢摸女的，在夏天借着拥抱的摸你裸露的背。她不解；你们怎么可以这样去误会别人？那个老头子只是表示慈爱罢了。他果真也摸了她的背，在她的皮肤上留下汗渍。她觉得她理应感到感激和喜悦。她以为自己看见的是一种男性长者的爱；一种惯犯的爱。她自豪地对别的女学生讲，那位老先生对我格外亲热，我就说他是喜欢我的。她看不见人家眼底的古怪。

Today, she understands what she feels is a form of acquired helplessness borne from personal experiences. Only much later did she realize how much she had internalized. She began to develop a tendency for physical touch. In middle school, she developed a habit of stroking faces. Other girls teased her: you're so dirty. Rumors spread that she was a lesbian because she was handsy around girls. Later, she came across another elderly man at the church where she was staying. He wore a rock and roll T-shirt, his hair already turning gray. The girls warned her to stay away. They told her he loved groping young women; in summer, he'd use hugs as an excuse to touch their bare backs. She couldn't understand how they could misunderstand someone like that. To her, the old man was showing fondness. He did stroke her back, leaving sweat stains on her skin. She thought she ought to be grateful and pleased. She thought that was affection from an elder man—of a habitual perpetrator. She proudly told other female classmates. Told you that old gentleman was especially fond of me. She couldn't see the strange look in their eyes.

内化到了这个阶段，她要为自己所经历的一切辩护了，更甚，她要心怀感激地接受这一切。有一次，她听到一个研究性学的指派男性社会学学者说，自己小时候经历过师生恋。凭什么权力就得是一成不变的呢？只要当事人没有感到被操纵和反感，那这种暧昧的流动的情欲关系，就不应当被女性主义野蛮地批判。于是，她也有样学样地自言自语：我必然是没有对肢体接触反感的。老师摸我的时候，我什么都没有感受到。只是一具冰冷的躯干，磨蹭另一具躯干。空空如也，就像我边缘磨损的心脏。我希望我没有身体的，她想。她最擅长自我催眠了。

By this stage of internalization, she had to justify everything she had experienced. More than that, she had to accept everything with all her heart. Once, she heard a male sociologist, who studied gender and sex, recount how he had experienced a teacher-pupil romance as a child. Why must power dynamics remain fixed? As long as those involved didn't feel manipulated or repulsed, such ambiguous, fluid desires between a teacher and a pupil shouldn't be brutally condemned by feminists. So, she mimicked his words, murmuring to herself: I must not have resented the physical contact. When the tutor touched me, I felt nothing. Just one cold body rubbing against another. Empty, like my heart worn down at the edges. I wish I was bodyless. She was, indeed, a maestro of self-hypnosis.

什么是喜欢，什么是反感？催眠的效果太好，以至于她再也无法确定好恶的区别。后来的一段时间，她开始试图像老师摸她一样，去试探身边亲近的朋友。她必须相信，这些触摸是合法的，是一种纯洁的爱的表达。有时候，她的朋友露出愕然的表情。有时候，她们只是一笑了之。有一次，她恶作剧心起，掀起一个朋友的裙摆。对方吓得差点从电梯上跌下来。如果这些是一种行为问题的话，一定是因为，她太顽劣，太不尊重人了，行为毫无节制，也没有适当的边界感。她想，随着社会化的推进，自己有望可以变得健全一些。

What is like? What is dislike? The hypnosis worked so well that she could no longer tell the difference. For a while afterward, she began testing her close friends, touching them the way her teacher had touched her. She had to believe these touches were legitimate, pure expressions of love. Sometimes her friends looked stunned. Other times, they simply laughed it off. Once, on a whim, she lifted a friend's skirt. The friend nearly fell out of the elevator in fright. If these were behavioral issues, it must be because she was too undisciplined, too disrespectful, acting without restraint and lacking proper boundaries. She hoped that as she progressed through socialization, she would become better adjusted.

很久很久以后，久到她已年逾三十，在一个公开的场合，猝不及防地，朋友严肃正告她：你和人拥抱的时候很恐怖。你会抚摸别人的背。在那一瞬间她意识到：原来我也变成了老师。身体的边界，人和人彼此的尊重，这些警戒词汇，压力爆破一齐尖鸣，她眩晕得无法对此作出反馈。原来我一直没有逃离放课后的那条小巷。她耳边回响起母亲尖酸刻薄的声音，你知不知道我们花了多少时间金钱让你学琴，培养情操？请的是最好的老师，连他都不能让你满意，你还要怎样？哪怕在得知男人的死讯后，她依然不能抬起她的小提琴和古典音乐。她年少时的挚爱永封心底，变成不可触碰的禁忌。

Many, many years later, so long that she was now over thirty, all of a sudden, a friend solemnly warned her, in public: "You're really creepy when you hug people. You'd stroke our backs." In that instant, she realized: I've become my tutor. Body boundaries, mutual respect between people—all these cautionary words exploded like pressure, shrieking in unison. She was so dizzy she couldn't respond. Turned out, I had never truly escaped that alleyway after my violin sessions. Her mother's shrill voice echoed in her ears: Do you have any idea how much time and money we spent on your violin lessons, refining your character? We hired the best of men, and even he couldn't make you happy. What more do you want? Long after the man's death, she still couldn't look at her violin.

那些无法落地的夜晚，她总是做梦。梦见追逐战。梦见放课后的小巷，她向着出口疾走，身后是一寸寸压下来的喘息的黑暗。梦见不断地跑，所有的路径都通往同一个夜晚。她的梦里从来没有天亮过。

When landing was impossible, she dreamed. She dreamed of being chased. She dreamed of after-session alleys, where she sprinted toward the exit with suffocating darkness bearing down, inch by inch. She dreamed of running endlessly, every path leading to the same night. Dawn never broke in her dreams.

时至今日，她不想再有任何文学性的表达。不想再有虚构。不想再把恨意藏进一首诗，叫做《致一名天国的仇人》，标题便明示了一切。不想再写一个孤独的小男孩被老女人摸的故事。停止吧，谎言。如果再不停止，她就会如失控的列车在逃跑中撞毁，躯壳脑壳浆糊状涂满舷窗，那些不置一词的人们将目眦欲裂地目睹她的公开死亡，这种幻想令她觉得很爽。一直以来，对于创伤她都感到绵软软的。她是针刺了太多次的人皮气球，她要抓住这个契机去撞得粉碎。她势必要亲手把这人皮气球戳爆，唯其如此才能诉说她所感受到的毁灭，因为，语言已经不能再被完整地信赖了。自我暴露将成为一种必要的自残手段。

By now, she wanted no more literary expressions. No more fiction. No more hiding her hatred in a poem ("To an Enemy in Heaven," the title said it all). No more writing about a lonely little boy being groped by an old woman. Enough for lies. If she didn't stop now, she'd crash like a runaway train, and they'd have to scrape her brain off the windowpanes. Let them watch, those closemouthed spectators, who'd witness her public execution with bulging eyes. She knew she'd be thrilled. All along, she was traumatized. She was soggy. Pain couldn't puncture her. She was a human-skinned balloon pricked too many times. Therefore, she must seize the chance to pop. She must pop it herself, for only then could she declare annihilation. For language wasn't trustworthy anymore. Self-exposure became a necessary form of self-mutilation.

她从床上醒来，依然从同一个城市醒来。命运在把她翻动，这是一种爱也无法抵御的恶心。

She was awake now. She was still lying in the same bed of the same city. She felt as if something was tossing her, and even love couldn't make it better for her. She knew what she felt was gross.

光，镜头，和她

作者：Aurora Shadowbook

Part.1

Roro如常挑了教室最后一排的座位，耳机从出门就一直塞在耳朵里，她习惯用迷幻乐作为隔绝外界的幕布。化学实验课的教授在讲台上滔滔不绝，Roro却头也不抬地一边摆弄着自己的紫色发梢，一边在脑袋里推演着自己在布鲁克林的小旧公寓里将要进行的实验。

若采用微乳和纳米制剂，雌二醇的透皮生物利用率肯定会高于目前市面上的乙醇溶剂，但是要筛选颗粒累积风险最低的载体.....

一只修长又骨节分明的手突然出现在Roro的桌面。抬头，是一个挑染着蓝色的水母发型的女孩正朝向自己，像刚从音乐节回来般穿着磨旧的乐队T恤，斜挎着的包上别着lesbian骄傲徽章。「教授让分组实验，和我一起？」语调带着笑意和慵懒，那是Clara对Roro说的第一句话。

「我一个人就行。」

充满防备意味的语气并没有劝退对方，Clara几乎是入侵般坐到她身边：「听说你化学很厉害，来，让我们一起搞定这堆原料。哎，你在听什么歌？朋克还是摇滚？」说着便凑近伸手假装要摘Roro的耳机，手指却无意擦过了她的颈。

她想往后缩，但Clara伸来的手掀动的空气带着柑橘和木质调的清香拂过她的脸，让她动作和心跳一起停了一拍。

「别碰我。」Roro不知道自己的反应在对方眼里算不算过激。

「对不起。」Clara道完歉后扭头不再说话，假装专注实验，但拿起试剂的手指轻微在抖。

「我可不喜欢用一脸无辜的表情跟别人假装自来熟好满足自己猎奇窥探欲的人。」这句台词在Roro心里演练了好几次，但直到实验结束也没能说出口。

她不擅长这种事。Roro真想把脑袋靠在窗边。

下课，教室外的走廊，Clara站在倾斜的阳光里，对刚走出教室门的Roro咧嘴笑：「嘿，又见面啦。」

Roro没有回应。她早就学会了把热度收回体内，藏进骨头里。

「你知道你很难搭讪吧。」

「我不是谁的猎物。」

「但你很特别，气质很像某样东西。」

「什么？」

「防盗门。」

Roro头也不回的走了。

啊，没心情做实验了，晚上还是看魔法少女小圆吧。

那次实验课后，Clara常在Roro意想不到的时候出现。晚上路过灯光下的诗歌朗读会，听到Clara在围成一圈的学生中念自己写的诗。在图书馆坐久了上楼顶透气，会撞见Clara不怕高似的老是坐在护栏上吸烟。学校的开放活动日，整个校园像一台不知疲倦鲜活跳动着的心脏，她看见Clara用她标志性的老旧相机拍摄现场的人群，不是用数码单反，是一台需要手动上片、对焦的胶片相机，白色连帽衫和浅蓝牛仔褲勾勒出她的修长轮廓立在人流的切线上。

一天，校园涂鸦墙上多了一个背影，没有署名。浅灰墙面上，一个人影手插在兜里，穿着黑色风衣和长裙，紫色短发刚好过颈，走在学校的小径，身旁一只红色雀鸟掠过。

Roro下课路过那里停留了良久，最后用喷漆补上了两个小字母：RR。
当天傍晚Clara拍下那面墙发到ins：有人回应我了。照片上灰色的墙面被夕阳映成了暖色调。 而Roro那晚没睡好。

虽然已经习惯了不抱期待，但同时她也明白，自己作为跨性别拉拉，对顺性别女孩抱有的更微妙更复杂的感情，向往又设防。

在一个一起坐在图书馆看书的下午之后，她们交换了彼此的书。Roro用《死灵之书》换了Clara的《橘子不是唯一的水果》。

她明白，灵魂有多么嫉妒肉体，如此温暖又柔软的血肉之躯。 ——珍妮特温特森《橘子不是唯一的水果》

尽管忘却令我感到平静，但一直以来我都知道自己是一个异客，自从那天我试图触碰镀金框架后面那个令人憎恶的东西后，我就意识到了这一点——自从那天我将手指伸出，却碰到了镜子的冰凉坚硬的表面后，我就意识到了这一点。 ——洛夫克拉夫特《死灵之书》

Part.2

起初，Roro是拒绝的。

「我不喜欢镜头。」

起因是Clara说的那句「我想拍你」。她之前确实随口提过要准备下个月秋季课程结束的短片作业。

她俩刚从学校图书馆出来，十一月的阳光是苍白的凉，风把地上的广告纸吹得团团乱转。
Clara看着Roro，贴身的黑色半透长袖衫下隐约可见胸衣的轮廓，下身的黑色裙裤随风飘动。这让Clara联想到一只躲进树影下的黑猫。

「你不是总在电影、漫画、小说里看别人的故事吗，我觉得也得有人讲讲你的。」

Roro低着头。「我只是不喜欢被看，被审视。」声音很轻，又坚决得不留余地，「镜头背后承载的目光，像手术刀把你剖开，然后人们一个个走进你体内，对你指指点点。」

Clara张了张嘴，但什么也没说出来。风吹得她眼角泛红。

没有更多谈论，话题就这样沉到了夜里。

几天后，Clara发来消息：想看一部电影，来吗？

Roro那时正被教授叫住聊试题，看到窗外落日正好，天光像一杯被搅匀的草莓牛奶。她鬼使神差地发了个：ok。

那是一部旧片，《永恒与一日》。放映厅在下城一座几乎没人光顾的小影院。观众屈指可数，Clara选了最后一排。

电影关于时间、记忆和未竟之爱。Roro觉得法国电影的克制总是略显沉闷，却意外被一幕击中——一个老人送一个陌生小孩坐船去边境，那个小孩问他：我们是朋友吗？

灯亮时，两人都没说话，像从梦里醒来，眼中有雾气。

出影院已是晚上十点。她们找了家旧英式风格的茶铺，Roro拿了兩杯加蜂蜜的热红茶，与Clara面对而坐。

「我以前以为，长大就是会慢慢舍弃你曾爱过的东西。」Clara先开口，眼睛却盯着杯口的热气出神，「可他没有，他把一切都留着，他妻子写的诗，那个不知道会不会再见的小孩。他拖着所有无法继续的东西活着。」

Roro的手略微收紧。「我记不清我爱过什么，我总觉得，自己还没体验过完整的上一篇，就被时间推着翻页了。」

Clara抬起视线望向了她们。

「我小时候总是想象一个家，不太大，有暖气，厨房里有食物香味。每次进寄养家庭前我都想，也许这一次会是那个家吧。」Roro的语气平静得像是在说别人的事，「可从来没有。不是他们的错，我太棘手了。我不听话，沉默寡言，经常莫名的受刺激，还在寄养机构里偷偷打激素。社工都说我是‘不合规的孩子’。」

「但现在的你很酷哎，让人想接近又犹豫的那种。」

「我只是提防别人有接近然后审判我的机会，被剥夺正常成长路径的我。」

Clara的心似被攥住。她感到自己不是那个在人群中第一个冲出去的女孩，而像是回到了四年前，又成了那个躲在房间里，听见父母在客厅安排扭转机构的人来接她时，咬着自己的手指不让自己哭出声的十六岁女孩。

快十一点时，两人从茶铺出来，风更冷了。一个醉汉靠在墙角大喊，手里拎着塑料袋，将一瓶啤酒砸到人行道上。Roro下意识地挡在Clara前面。

「你怕？」Clara低声问。

Roro没有回答。她只是静静盯着站在玻璃碴前的醉汉，一只手拉着Clara稳步走过。

Clara用手指轻轻挠了挠她的掌心。

送Clara回了宿舍，看见她整理的剪辑素材。

喂鸽子的老人。旧地铁里散乱的行人。街头昏黄灯光下的情侣。酒吧里衣着华丽的voguing舞者。一只雨夜里蹲在长椅下的猫。一朵生长在石缝里的花。

「拍这些也是为了交作业？」Roro问道。

Clara摇摇头。「不是为了拍给谁看，只是觉得它们在活着，就想留住它们。」

「为什么想拍我呢？」

「我不是只想完成一部作品，我想，我想看见你。不发出去也没关系。我想你只给我看。」

Roro轻笑。笑得克制，但眼角还是泄了气。

「Clara。」

「嗯。」

「我想让你拍摄我了。」

拍摄日5：讨论夜

那天Clara带来一本《第二性》：「你觉得第二波女性主义运动对跨性别女性是排斥的吗？」

「她的时代可能还没概念。但波伏娃相信‘女人不是生来如此，而是被塑造成的’，这句话在消解本质主义的层面上是有帮到我们的。」

「但很多人拿着跨女是‘后天成为女人’，而顺女从一出生就被这个身份塑造也因这个身份被压迫——的理由，把跨女描述成一种篡位，质疑跨女有真正的女性体验。」语气不是愤慨，而是疲惫和无奈。

Roro沉默了几秒。镜头还在录。

「我觉得，所受的压迫不是用来当做自己的主体性的，更不是用来划分你我的。‘塑造’这个词被这样使用的话，那就还是本质主义的变体罢了。」Roro语气并不激烈，像是早就听过太多类似的话了。

「只要没有一个‘女性标准’，那当然也没有所谓标准的真正的‘女性体验’。顺女会直接说‘我是什么样，女性就是什么样’。这当然没问题，只是如果换成跨女，这种回答就不奏效了——跨女被强行置于与某个标准的比较之中，这个标准的定义权还永远不在自己手上。」

Roro没料到她会这样说，眼睛先是睁大，随后软下来。「我第一次用激素是十五岁，躲在被子里偷偷用的。没人教我怎么注射，针头扎进大腿的时候手不停地抖。我想着有一天，人们会用‘she、her’来称呼我。」她轻发出一声似笑又似叹息的气，「我花了好几年去获取被人们说‘你肯定会后悔’的东西。等我证明他们是错的之后，这些人又开始告诉我‘你不是真正的’了。」

窗外的霓虹反射进来，给Roro的眼睛染上一抹紫蓝。

「痛苦，生命体验，它们又不是那种，可以从身上剥下来去丈量长宽高的东西、像银币一样咬一口就能鉴定真伪的东西呀。」

拍摄日8：夜行

Clara提议拍一段夜晚走在东村街头的画面，Roro同意了。

街灯在脚下拖出长影。Roro走在前，Clara隔着镜头注视她，紫色短发藏于深灰贝雷帽，米色针织衫的左肩缝着一只绷带兔，纤细的身形下，黑裙摆随步伐跳动，腰略微前倾，呈现弓弦的弧度。

她突然说：「你真的很美。」

Roro没回头：「美是会消耗的词，我不敢要。」

「但你已经在消耗了，你还不如要。」

Roro停下，转身看向她，浅灰的眼影在夜里显得更亮。两人对望。拿着镜头的手慢慢放下。

「Roro，我不是为了拍你才想接近你。」她轻声说，「你像我梦里想要抓住的人。」风吹动影子的衣角。

Roro抿下唇，走到她跟前，想确认什么。

「你要继续拍我吗？」

Clara点头，眼里一寸寸涟漪，像小鹅卵石落在温水中。

「你可能会失望的。」

Clara拿起镜头：「那我就拍下你让我失望的时候。」

拍摄日12：未完成的吻

那天拍到很晚，Clara检查相机，Roro坐在窗边看夜景。

「你不怕我的过去吗？」Roro忽然问。

Clara走来，坐在她身旁。「不怕。」窗外灯光零星，建筑昏暗。

「你也许还没看到我最坏的部分。」

「也许我喜欢你最坏的部分。」

空气安静了三秒。Clara微微低下头，嘴唇的气息拂动了Roro的额发——然后她退开了。

「别拍这段。」Roro低垂着脸，没有看向她。

Clara点头。却没有按下删除键。

那段影像从未公开。

拍摄日16：外景

Clara带着设备和Roro去了上州一个废弃温泉小镇。傍晚时分突降暴雨，车子抛锚。她们被困在一家旧旅馆中，天色灰蓝，风从山后呼啸而来。

Roro从浴室出来，紫发上还滴着水，穿着Clara借的宽大T恤，刚好盖住臀，露出肌肉紧致的腿。她抖了抖头发，坐到床上。

「这场景也太像狗血肥皂剧了。」

「对不起，我的剧本里可没有暴雨。」Clara窝在另一张床上剪辑素材。

Roro盯着她的侧影看了一会儿：「有没有想过要拍你自己的故事？」

「没人想看一个中西部小镇拉拉怎么长大的故事。」

「我想看。」

风正把窗帘吹得鼓起来。两人沉默了数十秒。

「我从小就在镇上的基督教学学校里上学。你知道我什么时候第一次想亲女孩子吗？在十三岁的洗礼课上。」

Roro挑了下眉。

「一个女孩在我耳边唱歌。我觉得她很好看，很香，转过头亲了她一下，被牧师拉走了。」

「然后呢？」

「然后她哭了，我跪了一个小时。我后来花了三年时间才相信那不是什么罪。」声音里透着苦笑。

屋外雨小了，风也渐停。

Clara站起身，走到Roro床边坐下。「你每次面对外人都像戴了盔甲。我知道你不想有人走进来。但我——」她轻声说，「我只想陪你坐着，不问你伤在哪儿。」

Roro伸出手，将Clara被风吹散的蓝色发稍轻轻捋到耳后。「别走得太近了，我怕我连你也伤。」

拍摄日20：深夜，非拍摄片段

「你看到我哭，会不会觉得我软弱？」

Clara停下剪片的操作。「不，那是我终于看见你在用力活着。」转身望向Roro，「你是被伤痕塑造出来的。我想让你有一天，可以不需要这么用力。」

Roro一时无言。

「我对你来说，到底是作为拍摄对象，还是...」

「我一开始是想看见你，但我现在想留住你。」

Roro半玩笑半真：「说得这么好听，不会是想骗我在你镜头下脱衣服吧？」

「不是。我想等你准备好，再亲你。」

Roro的笑慢慢沉下去，眼里似有雪花落在海底。

「那你要等很久。」

「那我就等很久。」

拍摄日24：镜头前的凝视

拍摄进入尾声那天，Clara让Roro正对镜头。没有旁白，没有访谈，只有一张未带妆的真实的脸。

10秒。

20秒。

「我以后可以一直拍你吗？」

40秒。

Roro试图理解刚刚那句话的意思。

60秒。

「我不会替你写旁白，不会剪掉你的沉默。哪怕你全程都在看窗外发呆，我也想把这场景保留下来。」

90秒。

Roro终于轻声说：「你还记得我第一次对你说的是哪句话吗？」

「我一个人就行。」Clara回答。

120秒。

「别让我一个人。」声音轻到不相信有人能够听见。

她看着镜头，像看进Clara眼里。

「拍我，证明我活过。」

美杜莎在大笑 [ 中文 > ENG ]

Medusa is Laughing

作者：狸嵬

写于2025年四月 | Written in April 2025

我没有做过爱，但已经想过性上万次。

I have never made love, but I have thought of sex more than ten thousand times.

高中以前，我只接触过异性恋和男同的性爱，对女人们如何取悦彼此的身体一无所知。

Before high school, I had only been exposed to the knowledge of heterosexual and gay male sex, knowing nothing about how women please each other's bodies.

直到我的夏校写作老师出现在讲台上。

Until my summer school writing teacher appeared at the podium.

一米六、清瘦、短发，戴方正细框的眼镜，她常穿单色的衬衫和工装裤。

One hundred and sixty centimeters tall, slender, with short hair and square, thin-framed glasses, she often wore solid-colored shirts and cargo pants.

我第一次对女人产生了性欲。

For the first time, I felt sexual desire for a woman.

一切随着欲望的出现而变得陌生。我以为那是我的末日——我将从此堕入“非正常”的地狱。

With the emergence of this desire, everything became unfamiliar. I thought it was my apocalypse—that I would from then be condemned to the hell of “abnormality.”

可它摧毁的不是我，而是那个父权的、刻板的、阳具中心的世界，那些我被教导去顺从的秩序与想象。

Yet what the desire destroyed wasn't me, but the patriarchal, rigid, phallocentric world. The orders, constructs, and imaginations I was taught to conform to.

我像发了退不下去的高烧，听课时脑中只剩下她的身体。我想抚摸她的腰，让她的手指探入我体内，轻抚我的脸，再亲吻我的唇。

Like a high fever that wouldn't reside, only thoughts of her body remained in my mind during class. I wanted to caress her waist. I felt the urge to let her fingers explore me and gently stroke my face. My lips longed for her kiss.

她的目光从一个同学扫向另一个，我屏息等待她与我对视，仿佛那就是某种隐秘的交合。
Her gaze swept from one classmate to another. I held my breath, waiting for her eyes to meet mine, as if that were some form of secret union.

只要多看我一瞬，她的指尖就捣进我的嘴里，沿着牙齿勾勒、描摹。短短几秒的幻想，却像做了二十分钟爱，心跳失控，汗湿脊背。

If she looked at me for just a moment longer, her fingertips would push into my mouth, tracing and outlining my teeth. A fantasy lasting seconds felt like making love for twenty minutes; my heart raced out of control, my back damp with sweat.

她的手指衔着粉笔，在黑板上摘抄《美杜莎的笑声》：“女性必须写自己：必须写女性，必须邀请女性来写。”

Her fingers held chalk, copying on the blackboard from The Laugh of the Medusa: “Woman must write her self: must write about women and bring women to writing.”

我想，对，你进入我的身体就是进入你自己的身体。女人必须与女人做爱，我要在你的身体里写诗。

I thought, yes, you entering my body is you entering your own body. A woman must make love to a woman. I want to write poetry inside your body.

她低头念，“女性必须从另一个女性那里得到她自己最好的东西，这样她就会也自爱，并爱那由她‘生出来’的身体。你，愿意的话，就触碰我吧，爱抚我吧，给我吧，活生生的无名无姓的你，跟我一样的我。”

She lowered her head and read, “It is necessary and sufficient that the best of herself be given to woman by another woman for her to be able to love herself and return in love the body that was ‘born’ to her. Touch me, caress me, you the living no-name, give me my self as myself.”

她的声音低而缓，像舌尖从耳后一路舔到锁骨。

Her voice was low and slow, like a tongue licking a path from behind the ear down to the collarbone.

我的嘴张开，却不知道该喘气还是吸气。

My mouth fell open, but I was unsure whether to gasp or hold my breath.

我的舌根像是被她的手指压住了，整个身体都在等待她下一步动作。

The root of my tongue felt pressed down by her fingers, my entire body waiting for her next move.

好痒，太痒了。我轻轻抬起臀部，让内裤更紧地压住阴蒂。

It's so itchy, too itchy. I lifted my hips, letting my underwear wrap tighter around my clit.

腹部像起了浪，一波波拍打着子宫和阴道，震颤不已——是高潮的前兆。旧世界的堡垒正在我体内崩塌。A tide swelled in my stomach, wave after wave crashing against my ovaries and vagina, shaking me ceaselessly — the sign of an approaching orgasm. The fortress of the old world was crumbling within me.

我几乎要在椅子上弓起身子，只想把从阴蒂传来的灼热压回去。

I almost arched my back in the chair, desperately wanting to force the scalding heat from my clit back inside.

洪水即将冲破堤防，顺着我紧绷的大腿，一路漫过椅面，泄露出我不敢言说的渴望。

The flood was about to breach the dam. It would rush down my tensed thighs, spill across the seat, and reveal the desire I dared not name.

她突然叫了我的名字。

She suddenly called my name.

我差点呻吟，只好咬住笔盖，把要溢出的高潮死死咽了回去。

A moan nearly escaped from my mouth. I bit down on my pen cap instead, swallowing back the orgasm that threatened to overflow.

她让我回答问题，我脸颊发烫，说不出个所以然。她笑了笑，“别走神。”

She asked me to answer a question, and my cheeks burned. I couldn't form a coherent answer. She smiled, "Don't space out."

我羞得不敢看她，又偷偷期望她的目光还停留在我身上。

I was too ashamed to look at her, but secretly hoped that her gaze would linger on my body.

她继续讲美杜莎，我假装认真记笔记，指尖因用力太过而泛白。

She continued lecturing on Medusa, and I pretended to take careful notes. I held my pen with so much force that my fingertips whitened.

我想美杜莎若是知道我走神的内容，一定会笑得更放肆，她会说，“让无意识的巨大源泉喷涌而出吧。让我们的油田满世界流淌，不论美金还是黑钱，一律不收，只因它是无价之宝，它将改变古老的游戏规则。”

I think if Medusa knew the content of my distraction, she would laugh even more hysterically. She would say, “Let the vast reservoirs of the unconscious erupt. Let our oil fields flow across the world — we’ll accept neither dollars nor dirty money, for this is priceless treasure. It will change the ancient rules of the game.”

至于她，她若是知道我在想什么——我忍不住收紧了腿，像是夹住她刚要离开的手指。As for her, if she knew what I was thinking — I couldn’t help but tighten my legs, as if hoping to trap the fingers she had begun to withdraw.

但她不知道，她还在解释长难句的结构。

But she doesn’t know. She was still explaining the structure of complex sentences.

而我只想大喊，“别讲了！”

And I just wanted to yell, “Stop lecturing!”

“我们早已背叛了语言。有你在的每一个春梦，都是我对阳具中心语法的删改意见。”

We have long since betrayed language. Every wet dream you appear in becomes my note to delete the language of phallocentrism.”

在梦里，我发出新生动物般的呻吟，然后掐住她的后颈，迫使她抬头与我深吻。我们在换气的间隙打乱语序，喘息中孕育新的文字。In my dreams, I make sounds like a newborn animal, grasp the back of her neck, forcing her to look up and kiss me. In the spaces between breaths, we scramble the order of words, forging new language within our panting.

西苏写美杜莎，我写我与她。Cixous wrote Medusa. I write of her and me.

我们是新语言的母体，在彼此深邃的甬道里重新学习书写。We are the living womb of a new language, relearning how to write within each other’s deep corridors.

我们在旧秩序残骸中赤裸相拥，老旧的语言在身体之间燃烧、蒸发、塌陷。

In the wreckage of the old order we cling to each other, bare, as the ancient language burns, evaporates, and collapses between our bodies.

这是一场无预谋的重生。

This is an unpremediated rebirth.

Non-Fiction

纪实文学

20240207 | 安祀夕 ... 47

Bra | 匿名 ... 50

女同性恋的再来一次 | 许卉 Hui Xu ... 52

《成为女性的权利》| Sho ... 56

20240207

作者：安祀夕
[中文 > ENG]

你看到了四十岁的我，和四十岁的你。

You saw me at forty, and yourself at forty.

你说那个时候的我，迷人的短发，成熟稳重，脸上和手上都有着皱纹，讲话非常慢，却再也没有了活泼。像是一个母亲，我们见完我还要去接孩子的感觉。

You said, by then, I'd have a charming short haircut, a calm and steady presence, wrinkles on my face and hands. I'd speak slowly, and the liveliness would be gone. Like a mother. Like I'd be picking up a child after meeting you.

你说你感觉我很陌生。我们面对面坐着，你却完全琢磨不透我在想什么了。我们都是一袭黑衣，你说我喝着红酒。我们都老了。

You said I felt like a stranger. We sat across from each other, but you couldn't read me anymore. We were both dressed in black. You said I was drinking red wine. We were both older.

你说过你未来某一天，你一定会怀念现在和朋友们的感情，因为它注定会散。我们，哪一天也会走散呢？然后四十岁，再带着距离，再次聚首。也只是聚首了。你不会再牵起我的手。

You once said that one day in the future, you'd miss the closeness with your friends now, because it's fated to fade. And us — when will we begin to drift? Then at forty, we'll meet again with distant histories. Just to meet. You won't have my hand to keep.

就像你问我，当你有一天想退出的时候，我会想你直接告诉我，还是你慢慢离开？我说，真正的离开都是悄无声息的。但我也会私心祈祷那一天来临得慢一点，再慢一点。我哪怕依然只能把我们交给命运，但还是会想不服从安排，你知道，我一直是个很犟的人。我不服，我们可以走得远一点，再远一点点，再走一步，再走一步。就像我们挂不断的电话。

It's like when you asked me: If one day you decided to leave, would I rather you tell me directly, or slowly slip away? I said that real departures always happen quietly. But selfishly, I still pray that day comes slowly, just a little slower. Even if I can only give us up to fate, I still want to resist it. You know I've always been stubborn. I don't want to accept it. We could go a little farther, just a little farther still. One more step. And one more. Like a phone call we can't seem to hang up.

四十岁的我。十五年后。那个时候我们加在一起都八十岁了。现在我们加在一起是四十九岁。还有很多看不见的故事。

Me, at forty. Fifteen years from now. By then, together we'd be eighty. Now, together, we're forty-nine. There are still so many stories waiting to unfold.

二十四岁的我，会希望四十岁的时候身边有你。你说好啊，我四十岁生日那天你来找我就好了。不过你知道我在说什么。

The me at twenty-four hopes that when I'm forty, you'll still be by my side. You said, sure, just come find me on my fortieth birthday. But you know what I really meant.

二十四岁的我，会希望四十岁的时候身边有你。虽然不知道未来某一天，这份愿景是否会成为缘尽，但二十四岁的我，真诚地这样祈祷着。

The me at twenty-four hopes that when I'm forty, you'll still be there. Though I do not know whether, one day, this vision may fade into division, my twenty-four-year-old self prays for it with all sincerity.

我和你说，我看到了未来某一天，我去接你下班，牵着你走过人群，也不怕被你的同事或者学生看到。你会和我讲今天上班时发生的开心的，不开心的事，我微笑着听你说话，你不开心的讲出来也就不再不开心了。然后我们不紧不慢就走到了家，太阳穿过巷子，刚好落山。

I was telling you that I saw a day in the future. I pick you up from work. We walk through the crowd hand in hand, not caring whether your colleagues or students see us. You tell me about your day — the little joys and frustrations. I listen, smiling. And once you've said it all, the weight lifts. We walk home, unhurried. The sun spills through the alley as it sets.

对，这样一幅稀疏平凡的生活碎片，掉落在我的眼前，闪着日落的风。

Yes, a quiet, ordinary moment like this. It landed in my mind like a flicker of wind catching the light at dusk.

我不知道它是从哪里来的，但是我的确看见了。就像我在2021年看到了我们，而一样的画面都在2024年发生了。

I don't know where that vision came from, but I saw it. Just as I saw us in 2021, those very visions came true in 2024.

二十四岁的我，会希望你的梦只是梦，是一条不会在现实世界线发生的疏远。不过至少在某条世界线，我们还是没有完全散，对吗？

The me at twenty-four hopes that your dreams stays only a dream—a distant ending that never happens on this worldline. But on some other worldline, we never truly lost each other, right?

二十四岁的我，会希望四十岁的我依然保持着活泼，眼里依然有光，是反射的你身上的光。可以成熟稳重，但和继续活泼并不矛盾。我并看不见自己会成为母亲，因为还是更多想把时间和精力花在养育自己，和陪伴你，傻傻地看着你的笑颜。

The me at twenty-four hopes that the me at forty remains playful, and still has light in my eyes—the light reflected from yours. It's possible to be steady and still remain playful. I can't picture myself as a mother, because I still want to pour my time and love into raising myself and staying beside you. I want to watch you smile, foolishly, lovingly.

对，四十岁的我，也会和现在一样傻笑看着你，只是那时候可能不会笑得和现在一样痴汉了。

Yes, me at forty would still smile at you like I do now. Though by then, I probably won't be grinning at you with quite the same smitten look on my face.

二十四岁的我，会希望四十岁的时候，每天给你写的信，都能在第二天亲自递给你，而再也不用担心寄不到了。又或者已经不需要再寄给你了，因为每天可以在睡前，慢慢讲给你听，然后让那些话都随风散去，不再成为化石。

The me at twenty-four hopes that at forty, the letters I write to you each day can finally be handed to you in person the next morning. No more wondering if they'll reach you. Or maybe by then, I won't need to send them at all, because I can whisper them to you each night before we sleep, and let the words fade into the breeze, never fossilized.

二十四岁的我，会希望四十岁的时候，醒来的第一眼是你在身边。依然能够被你吻醒，如同十五年前的那个吻一样。睡眠质量可能会下降，但是在你身边睡着依然会安心。我轻抚你开始略带皱纹的脸，你轻轻把我揽入怀里，揉着我的头发。

The me at twenty-four hopes that at forty, you're still the first thing I see when I wake. You'll still kiss me awake, just like you did fifteen years ago. Maybe my sleep will be lighter, but next to you, it will always feel safe. I'll run my hand over the faint wrinkles beginning to form on your face. You'll pull me into your arms and stroke my hair.

很好啊，至少我们都能活到四十岁。我曾经一直不渴求活太久，我觉得我看不见我的未来。我可能会死在世界的任何一个角落，可能死在格陵兰岛的雪山，也可能就死在下一秒的车祸。我对自己的人生和未来没有什么期待，觉得活够了就可以死了，多的只是拖延时间。

Well, at least we both make it to forty. I used to think I didn't want a long life. I couldn't see a future for myself. I thought maybe I'd die anywhere — on a snowy mountain in Greenland, or in a car crash a second from now. I didn't expect much from life. I just felt that once I'd had enough, I could go. The rest was delaying time.

但现在，如果可以，我想扭转命运。不过大概率一定是一直在被命运扭转，但不能排除那百分之一的概率，就像你说的。因为我还想看到你更久，久一点，再久一点点，再过几天，几分钟，几秒，就像我们挂不断的电话。

But now, if I could, I'd try to bend fate. Though, more likely, fate has always been the one bending me. Still, as you said, maybe there's a one percent chance. Because I want to see you longer. A little longer. And then a little longer than that. A few more days, a few more minutes, a few more seconds. Like a call that never ends.

我看到了有你的未来。

I saw a future with you in it.

不会是你先送走我，或者我先送走你。这就已经很好了。

It doesn't matter if I go first or you do. This is already enough.

只是你的这个梦，听起来有些让人难过。不过这也只是梦。

It's just that this dream of yours sounds a little sad to me. But it's just a dream.

Bra

作者：匿名

早上九点醒来，梦里找不到驾驶证的焦急还心有余悸，看手机有苏工的信息，叫我下去尝一尝牛肉的味。他早上五点就起了，给我把昨天买来的八公斤牛肉卤好煮。我回了好，还是磨蹭了半小时再下楼去敲他的门，见面第一句就说我：“你也太秀气了”。

打开煮好牛肉的锅子，鼻子凑上去闻，满满的火锅香，还浮着一包卤料。苏工捞一块牛肉给我尝尝，味道还不如锅里的汤底香，也没盐味。他问要不要加酱油上色，我不懂有什么区别，以为往里头哐哐倒几勺酱油就行了。他跟我说不明白，也可能他表达能力有所欠缺，直接就整给我看。

煮肉的锅子旁边架着一个炒锅，他舀了几勺汤汁过去，倒些酱油，加点味精。刚开始我没看清楚小罐里头的味精，问他是什么， he 说是毒药。再把煮锅里所有的牛肉都捞过去，撒上盐（又被我看成了白糖），起火翻炒，不久就出锅了。两手握住锅把，倾入不锈钢盆里，内心不禁感叹腕力之大。

末了，从房间拿出一袋牛奶给我，入厨房的路上不经意间提起，叫我注意点，要穿胸罩，不然看得清清楚楚。说胸罩的时候还双手在肩膀比划了一下，也许是肩带的意思。我以为他说我现在，我说我贴了胸贴啊（现在反应过来当时为什么没说乳贴，估计是被胸罩带偏了）。他说上个星期噻，是不是没贴？

确实乳贴是这周才托人从国内带过来的，用上之后舒服死了，再也不用陷入凸点的尴尬了，也没了应该还是穿下内衣比较好的纠结了。

不过我反驳得很自然，说我觉得也没啥啊，你们男的不也没穿。他倒没继续这个话题了，或许是一时不知如何回复，或许是本提起这个话题已经给了他压力，想不到我没有半分羞涩或尴尬。

我们也很顺其自然地结束了对话，我迈着步子去食堂准备吃点早餐，虽然这时候早已不是饭点。确实如此，本应摆在餐桌上的锅具都已撤回等待区，里头也干干净净空空如也。

我站在厨房的窗户口，看着里头穿梭的人，期望着和某个老巴对上眼，示意给我来杯奶茶。我估计是中国城里头最爱喝老巴奶茶的人了，因此都能明白我的意思。不过幸好遇到了每日早餐时刻侯在桌子旁守着牛奶的人，生怕有些人拿多了。他工作日的早上已经习惯给我准备两个半熟煎鸡蛋和一杯奶茶了，来得早我跟他招呼一声就帮我跟厨房说了，有时晚了他就自个儿叫厨房弄好了等我来，算是很周到了。今早碰着他，让我等五分钟，马上就来，真真是好。

在等待和吃早餐的时候，我没带手机用来打发无聊，脑袋里却止不住地转，关于苏工叫我穿胸罩这件事，我到底是在意还是不在意呢？

首先我确实没感到冒犯，也许因他的出发点是善意的，也许因当时的场景只我俩人，没第三者在场的尴尬，也许是我们关系还行，他作为长辈觉得应该提醒我一下。但我真的没觉得冒犯吗？

我在尽力挖掘出我应该觉得冒犯的感受来，从无中寻有，似乎这才是正确的方向。我反复思索，都没什么头绪。莫非是，我想要合理化自己没被冒犯，把那些深处的不舒服压抑住了？因此变得不可见，不被感知？

还是更简单点的，我就是没有被冒犯到？

我为什么对自己到底舒不舒服都变得如此不确信了呢？难道我不应该才是那个感受的主体吗？却被应不应该牵着鼻子走。而应不应该，是从哪冒出来的呢？

要是用心理学解释第一层，倒是很容易：就是合理化自己的需求。我现在需要的就是感受不到冒犯，这样我才能更顺畅地在这个地方生活。

可是事实真的如此吗？

是我不愿意面对我合理化自己行为的事实，这样一种残酷？还是我可以觉得没有被冒犯到，这样一种可能性？一种所谓的“向下的自由”？

是我为懦弱的自己在这里无法重拳出击找借口，还是我已经内化了“向下的自由”带来的舒坦？

就没有其它的解释了吗？

是女权理论和实践带给我的真实生活的矛盾感，是背刺女权身份带给我的道德枷锁，是这样一种割裂感吗？

我常常因此陷入困惑。

女同性恋的再来一次——为脱口秀创作

Lesbian Once More – originally written for standup comedy

作者：许卉 Hui Xu [中文 > ENG]

我觉得我这一生只想做两件事。一件是搞同性恋，另一件是搞精神分析。如果你是一个同性恋，你可能会遇到家人不理你了，朋友不理你了，工作也不要你了。于是当你觉得自己一无所有时，你会去创造一些让自己很开心的事情。我发现我虽然很多事情坚持不下去，可是同性恋是我这一辈子不用努力都坚持得下去的一件事。

I think there are only two things I want to do in this life. One is being a lesbian, and the other is doing psychoanalysis. If you're gay, you might run into situations where your family stops talking to you, your friends drift away, and even your workplace doesn't want you anymore. So when you feel like you have nothing left, you start creating things that make you genuinely happy. I've realized that I can't stick with most things for long—but being a lesbian is the one thing in my life I can keep doing effortlessly, without trying at all.

这里有多少人是女同性恋？我不知道这里有多少人了解精神分析？我是一个做过5年多拉康派精神分析的女同性恋。我开始分析是因为我单恋一个女孩子，我很喜欢她的声音，她当时在逐句讲解经济学人。一般问一个人为什么开始做一件事，是一个很好的了解别人的窗口。所以你是如何开始女同性恋的？

How many of you here are lesbians? I have no idea how many of you know anything about psychoanalysis. I'm a lesbian who has done Lacanian psychoanalysis for over five years. I started analysis because I had an unrequited crush on a girl. I loved her voice—she was explaining The Economist to me, line by line. Asking someone why they started doing something is usually a great window into who they are. So, how did you start being a lesbian?

我站在这挺紧张的。这是因为我享受着你们目光的注视。我想要表现得很完美。我想要你们说我很棒，就像小时候我妈妈说我好一样。说到这个，我想跟大家说一个让你们可以很快变得很厉害的知识，就是我们眼中的他人都是我们自己，他人眼中的我们都是他们自己。给你们几秒钟思考一下前面的这句话。我接下来讲的只是我作为一个女同性恋的生活，如果你们觉得和你们的女同性恋生活有很多的不同，不用怀疑，我们都是女同性恋。

I'm standing here feeling a little nervous, and that's because I'm enjoying your gaze. I want to perform well, I want you to say that I'm good, just like the way my mom used to say I was good when I was a child; and speaking of that, I want to share a piece of knowledge that can make you "very advanced" quickly: the people we see are always ourselves, and the way others see us is always about themselves—take a few seconds to think about that; what I'm about to talk about is simply my life as a lesbian, and if it feels very different from your own lesbian life, don't doubt it, because we are all lesbians.

我来说脱口秀是因为我看了一部跨性别的电影。看完后，我觉得拉康派的精神分析对人看得太透彻了。纽约知道拉康的人很少，知道拉康，做完5年多个人分析的人更少。做完5年拉康派个人分析的人，是女同性恋的，还是华人的，少之又少。所以下次你们谁想来说脱口秀，先培养一个小众的爱好，让自己与众不同一些。女同性恋是这里的绝大多数。

I started doing stand-up because I watched a film about a transgender person, and afterward I felt that Lacanian psychoanalysis sees people a little too clearly. Not many people in New York know Lacan; even fewer both know Lacan and have completed more than five years of personal analysis. Among those who have done five years of Lacanian analysis, the number who are lesbians, and also Chinese, is even smaller. So the next time any of you want to do stand-up, start by cultivating a niche interest to make yourself a bit more distinctive. After all, lesbians make up the overwhelming majority here.

我小时候觉得自己是小男孩，长大后我会变成男的。我小时候觉得只有那些像男的女同性恋才觉得自己是男的。我听说有很多很漂亮的女的，也觉得自己是男的。所以对女同性恋来说，我们是作为一个小男孩完成了自己的俄狄浦斯情结。什么意思呢？就是说，如果你们喜欢的女孩子选择了一个没有你漂亮的女孩，可能只是因为那个女孩给她的感觉，像你们喜欢的女的年轻的时的妈妈。

When I was a child, I thought I was a little boy, and that when I grew up I would become a man. Back then, I believed that only those lesbians who looked masculine thought of themselves as male. Later I learned that many very beautiful women also think of themselves as male. So for lesbians, we complete our Oedipal complex as little boys. What does that mean? It means that if the woman you like chooses another woman who is less beautiful than you, it may simply be because that woman feels to her like her own mother did when she was young.

我是学人工智能的。你们有多少人是写代码的？你们觉得AI女友会取代你们的女朋友吗？哦，我还没问有多少人女朋友？你们有你们自己的答案，可是我觉得AI女友永远不会取代你们的女朋友。AI女友可以每时每刻跟你说好听的话，满足你所有的需求，如果有一天，AI女友可以完成所有的知识型工作，她还是不能取代你们的女朋友。你们可以反驳我。我觉得因为AI女友是完美的，而你们的女朋友是不完美的，只有不完美才能让爱在你们之间变得可能。所以如果你还单身觉得自己不好，也不用担心女朋友找不找得到。

I study artificial intelligence. How many of you here write code? Do you think AI girlfriends will replace your girlfriends? Oh, before that, how many of you actually have girlfriends? You probably already have your own answers, but I don't think AI girlfriends will ever replace your girlfriends. An AI girlfriend can say nice things to you every moment, meet all your needs, and even if one day she can complete all knowledge-based work, she still won't replace your girlfriend. You can argue with me if you want. I think it's because an AI girlfriend is perfect, and your girlfriend is not, and only imperfection makes love between you possible. So if you're single and feel like something is wrong with you, don't worry too much about whether you'll ever find a girlfriend.

比如说有人来跟我说她女朋友对她怎么不好。我会笑着对她说，你们挺般配的。就是两个人之间的症状，根据拉康的说法我们每个没有完成分析的人都有症状，这是语言带来的，让两个人的亲密关系成为可能。我们追求的不是快乐，而是某种超越快乐的东西，叫做享乐。比如说施虐和受虐，虐恋。我听说这种享乐在华人女性里面出现比例非常高，就是很多华人女性会寻找对他们不好的施虐的另一半。所以如果你很喜欢一个女性，你可以试着对她施虐。你可以仔细想想看看我说的这句话是不是这样。

For example, when someone comes to me and tells me how badly her girlfriend treats her, I'll smile and say, "You two are actually a good match." What I mean is that the symptoms between two people, according to Lacan, everyone who hasn't completed analysis has symptoms, produced by language, are precisely what make intimacy possible. What we pursue is not happiness, but something that goes beyond pleasure, something called jouissance. For example, sadism and masochism, BDSM. I've heard that this kind of jouissance appears at a very high rate among Chinese women, that many Chinese women seek out partners who treat them badly, partners who are sadistic. So if you really like a woman, you might try being sadistic toward her. You can think carefully about whether what I'm saying is true.

我听说很多女同性恋喜欢学历好，赚钱多的，长得漂亮的女同性恋。我原来也是如此。至于我为什么会用原来，你们明白吗？我现在喜欢看美食节目，那种自己种菜，自己炒菜，那些菜像小时候吃过的美食的美食节目。我觉得一个不那么赚钱的女朋友，和我一起讨论美食，说说话，说说每天的生活，就特别好了。

I've heard that many lesbians are attracted to lesbians who are highly educated, make a lot of money, and are very beautiful. I used to be like that too. As for why I say used to, you probably understand. These days I like watching cooking shows—the kind where people grow their own vegetables and cook dishes that resemble the foods they ate as children. I think having a girlfriend who doesn't necessarily make a lot of money, who can talk with me about food, chat, and share the details of everyday life, would be really nice.

我想说一下话语给我们的划痕。我喜欢美食，长得比较胖，是因为小时候我家人说胖点好，身体健康。我发现很多女孩子很优秀，可是很循规蹈矩，很多条条框框限制住了这些女孩子。可能女孩子听得更多的是，听话好，而不是调皮捣蛋好。这些就是话语给我们的划痕。听话这个词，本来就挺施虐的。

I want to talk about the marks that language leaves on us. I love good food, and I'm a bit overweight, partly because when I was young my family always said it was better to be a little chubby; it meant you were healthy. Later, I noticed that many girls are truly outstanding, yet they grow up very restrained, confined by so many rules and expectations. What girls often hear is that being obedient is good, rather than that being mischievous or spirited is okay.

我鼓励大家多去谈面对面的恋爱，多一起做一些事，跟一个女朋友谈很多次，或者跟不同的女朋友谈很多次都可以。每次谈恋爱都能给我们带来一些新的话语，让我们能够从心所欲不逾矩，比如说，同时跟很多的女朋友谈恋爱。

I encourage everyone to pursue more face-to-face relationships, to do things together in the real world—whether that means dating the same girlfriend many times, or dating different girlfriends many times; every relationship brings us new ways of speaking and understanding, allowing us to follow our desires without overstepping boundaries—for example, even dating multiple girlfriends at the same time.

拉康说过一句话，女人不存在。女人无法被定义，因为每一个女人都是独一无二的。所以我站在这里，看着台下的每一个女人，你们都是那么的特别，特别迷人。

Lacan once said, "Women do not exist." Women cannot be defined, because every woman is unique; so as I stand here looking at each woman in the audience, every one of you is special—distinctive, and deeply captivating.

你们有多少是为了来认识可以谈恋爱的女朋友的？有多少是已经有女朋友的？你们有多少人用过找女朋友的软件？我觉得现在的交友软件设计得很不合理，特别是对于我这种长得不好看的人来说，当然对你们长得好看的人来说也不好，因为选择太多了。

How many of you came here hoping to meet a girlfriend you could date? How many of you already have a girlfriend? And how many of you have used dating apps to look for a girlfriend? I think dating apps are designed very poorly—especially for people like me who aren't good-looking, though honestly they're not great for good-looking people either, because there are simply too many choices.

如果让我来开发这个交友软件。我会让大家来写小作文，关于你自己，关于你是怎么喜欢上你喜欢的人的，关于你喜欢你喜欢的人和我们一起玩什么？你可以说你想说的任何话，因为数据存储在本地，通过运算得到特征，这些特征上传用于匹配。这个软件只面向酷儿女性。你说得越多，它越能给你找到你匹配的人。如果有这个软件，有多少人会用？哦，我知道有多少人没有女朋友了。如果这个软件不只是交女朋友，还可以交酷儿朋友，有多少人会用？哦，我知道多少人有女朋友了。

If I were to design a dating app, I'd ask everyone to write short personal essays—about yourself, about how you fell in love with the people you've loved, about what you enjoy doing together with the people you like. You could say anything you want, because the data would be stored locally, processed to extract features, and only those features would be uploaded for matching. The app would be exclusively for queer women. The more you write, the better it can find people who match you. If such an app existed, how many of you would use it? Oh—I can tell how many of you don't have girlfriends. And if this app weren't just for dating but also for making queer friends, how many of you would use it? Oh, I can tell how many of you do have girlfriends.

我是做精神分析的人，我知道一旦一个人找到一个愿意去倾听他的耳朵，那么他就是活着的。倾听的位置是一个女性的位置。女性的位置是一个空的位置，一个容纳的位置，一个不能被定义的位置，一个倾听的位置，一个受虐的位置。我们可以说一个合格的精神分析家也是一个女性的位置。

I practice psychoanalysis, and I know that the moment someone finds an ear willing to listen to them, they are truly alive. The position of listening is a feminine position. The feminine position is an empty position, a receptive position, an undefinable position, a listening position, a masochistic position. We could even say that a competent psychoanalyst occupies a feminine position.

我们这一辈子追求什么？爱，妈妈之前给了我，而我又失去的爱。不是每个人都能体验到这种爱。女同性恋是能够体验这种真爱的一小部分人。这不是长久的性爱或多次的高潮。而是爱，再来一次，再来一次，再来一次。就像Encore，下次我们可以再来一次！

What do we spend our lives pursuing? The love. The kind of love my mother has given to me before, and lost. Not everyone gets to experience this kind of love. Lesbians are a small group who can experience this true love. It's not long-lasting sex or repeated climaxes. It's love, over and over again, again and again. Just like an encore—next time, we can do it all over again!

《成为女性的权利》

作者：Sho

She's told she's not a 'woman' by the whole world.
Nevertheless, she persisted.
What could be more 'woman' than that?

十岁生日会那天，我被大人们要求穿上裙子。那条裙子包含着大人们对我的期待：一个“正常的”女孩子应该在生日当天开心地穿上大人们为她新买的小裙子。尽管我再三说过我不喜欢，他们仍然坚持要求我穿上那条裙子。这一幕其实埋下了一个萦绕我多年的疑问：“为什么他们说我不像女孩？女孩该是什么样的？”。

我从小不爱化妆打扮，于是经常被别人说“不像正常的女孩子”。在“学习最重要”的应试环境里，这似乎还算得上“优点”。可一旦我想穿比较中性风的衣服，家人就质问我：“你是不是想当男的？”更不用提在进入大学后，我的家人开始催促我使用护肤品、化妆品。我的声音比大部分女性更加低沉，曾经有客服在电话里问我“是不是本人”，有一些女同交友群和全女群会要求声音验证，我能理解她们是害怕或厌恶顺直男的入侵，但这种机制确实给我带来了心理压力：害怕自己被当众质疑是不是“女人”。

一位transfem朋友推荐了Julia Serano的《Whipping Girl》给我。这本书描述了跨性别女性经常被他人指责为是在伪装成女人、在假装拥有女性气质。但这些指控揭示的不是跨女的本质，而是这个社会如何试图定义女人。她的书让我想起从小到大看到或听到的无数意见：一个女人太性感不行，会被说“骚”，太朴素也不行，会被说“没女人味”；太爱打扮不行，因为“显得浅薄、头脑空空”，不爱打扮也不行，因为“不正常”；太善良不行，因为太“妇人之仁”，太冷酷也不行，因为“毒蝎心肠”。这是一场全方位的misogyny（厌女）。

如Serano所说，以下两种偏见往往交织在一起：transmisogyny（对跨性别女性的特有歧视，把她们的女性气质视为虚假或危险）、以及anti-femininity（对女性气质的贬低）。“厌女”和“对女性气质的贬低”让跨女和顺女都被困在一种疑惑里：“女性该是什么样的？”但这一问题的答案却并不掌握在我们自己手中，而在于他人的评价。

问题不仅在于人们如何评价女性，更在于“谁有权定义”。Sara Ahmed提醒我们，女性往往被当作情绪的载体：如果你顺从，你是“好女人”；如果你拒绝，你就是“坏女人”，你会被归类为“不快乐的女权主义者”。这其实是另一种控制方式——通过决定谁是“幸福的”，来决定谁能是“合格的女人”。而Judith Butler 则说，性别并不是固定的身份，而是一种不断被表演、被规范的实践。也就是说，我们之所以不断被要求“证明自己”，正是因为社会秩序其实是一种规范，它从不允许我们自己来决定自己是谁、我们该是什么样。

由此，Serano揭示的逻辑浮现出来：所谓“虚假的女性气质”、跨女是“欺骗者”的说法，其实是父权社会的投射——父权社会本身建立在虚假的性别二分法与刻板印象之上，它就以为其他人也在“欺骗”。

女性从未真正掌握过“定义自身”的权力，所以任何偏离秩序的尝试都会被父权社会及其拥护者打成“虚假”。曾经女性不能上大学、不能参加体育赛事，因为父权社会认为女人不够聪明、不够强壮，他们想把女人定义为“愚蠢、弱小”。

1928年阿姆斯特丹奥运会上，女子田径首次被纳入比赛项目，其中女子800米因出现多名选手在终点后瘫倒、体力透支的场面，引发了社会上对于“女性适不适合长跑”的强烈质疑。在这一背景下，日本选手人见绢枝（Kinue Hitomi）成为焦点，她身高接近一米七、肌肉线条分明，加上她在800米中勇夺银牌，突破了当时人们对“女性身体极限”的想象。一些媒体和公众认为她“体格过于男性化”，甚至在杂志采访中，记者直接问她是否有人怀疑她“是不是女人”——理由包括体重接近男性、胸部和臀部“不似典型日本女性”，肤色也因训练而晒黑。可以说，对她的质疑并非基于事实，而是源自当时社会对女性运动员“跑得太快、身体太强”的不信任与性别刻板印象。奥运会的“验女”，正是“厌女”的体现。

为什么社会有权质疑我们是不是“真正的女人”？

既然权力从未掌握在我们自己的手中，既然女性从未有过“成为女性的权利”，那我们也就无需再向谁去证明我们“够格”了。

“Feminism is the refusal to define a woman.”

我们所追求的，不应该是一个新的标准答案，而是一种拒绝被答案框定的自由。

我在十岁生日会穿上的那条裙子，本不该是被别人强迫的。也许女权主义就该是这种自由：不必再穿上别人为你准备的裙子，才能被叫做女人；想穿裙子的女人，也能自在地穿上它。

参考文献：

播客《说医解药》奥运会“验女”史：被遗传学家质疑的性别遗传检测 Vol.18

“Hitomi Kinue: Japan's First Female Phenom Shatters Stereotypes and Records.” The Olympians (2016).

(<https://theolympians.co/2016/06/13/hitomi-kinue-japans-first-female-phenom-shatters-stereotypes-and-records/>)

“Hitomi Kinue: A Strong Woman.” Encyclopaedia Britannica.

(<https://www.britannica.com/topic/Hitomi-Kinue-A-Strong-Woman-1795626?>)

Protesters rally for trans rights following a Supreme Court ruling that only biological women are recognised under Britain's Equality Act, in London, Britain on April 19, 2025. Photo: Reuters

Poetry

诗歌

- 58 ... Pride Flags | Chloe W.
- 59 ... Manzana de Agua | Chloe W.
- 60 ... Pluerry, California | Chloe W.
- 61 ... 残酷的春天，北岛致阿赫玛托娃 | 帕帕
- 62 ... All the things I wish I could tell you | Seiki Ling
- 63 ... 诗 | 萝卜
- 65 ... 东风 | 赵北一
- 67 ... 蛋 | 赵北一
- 68 ... 飞越北极 | 赵北一
- 69 ... 玻璃 | 姬械芯
- 70 ... 母亲的骨头 | 萧清
- 71 ... 离宇宙更近的地方 | 萧清
- 73 ... 她说过 | "Ida" Yida Zhou

An abstract, painterly representation of the top portion of a rainbow flag, featuring soft, blended strokes of red, orange, and yellow against a light background.

Pride flags

BY CHLOE W

I hung them up on the ceiling of my bunk bed mezzanine, soaked and dripping the warm light of a distant country; when singing (our) anthem you extend your arms into each other, unweaving ourselves from bodies to curves into each other like the way Egon Schiele drew “Two Friends”. Two friends crossing hearts, two friends crossing hands, two friends crossing boundaries, two friends offending the cross by kissing behind the stripes of orange and pink and red and yellow.

In your borders I drag a language of pleasure that I never learned to speak; my Eros crouch with green eyes, wings open in the corner of our scene, your scene, the obscenely tender
Bursting at the seams.

Biting my lips that Tastes like your detergent and a layer of cold sweat
But that’s better left unsaid
For another time when we love each other more.

Manzana de Agua

BY CHLOE W

This morning before the sun rises,
You planted manzana de agua Onto my lips Watery
With a tinge of creamy sweetness that belongs to Those who picked the water apple
    manzana de agua
From the forbidden tree.

Lilith watched as Eve crunched into the manzana de agua
The translucent juice trickled down her throat
And at her collarbones, left a love mark where the serpent would have bitten.

We drove the room like a caravan
The light, golden like water Pours in as we move into each other, sharing the manzana de agua
In the end, we might be disappointed
As it could taste no different than just the apple
But right now, at this moment
We should kiss again, underwater, within the manzana de agua.

Pluerry, California

BY CHLOE W

Last night

You left the strawberries, half cut with the neat bites of your teeth marks.
Their damp redness, raw and slightly fermented, Snuggled quietly into my bed. I felt
A bone-chilling heat, tingling my breast.

The image once again
Of you biting into the Pluerry

(This foreign, hybrid, American word rolled for days on my tongue)
The translucent, golden juice that I imagined to trace
The watercolor spots on your back
Purple and red, golden and green.

But with a cautious aftertaste of guilt
I succumb to the shades of California
Behind trees and buildings, in the shades that remain just a few steps away from the Scorching heat of Your distant hometown.

All the things I wish I could tell you

This is a story about falling for someone.
A woman falling for another woman.
It is my story, and it could also be anyone's story.

Mine, yours, ours.
我的，你的，我们的故事。 我想为你写暗恋的美与悲， you are my quiet joy, my unimaginable sadness.

If I had to elaborate, here are all the things I wish I could tell you:
我对你的喜欢讳莫如深，
I have become the prisoner of my own obsession.
在靠近又退缩的缝隙里，
I am incapable of setting myself free.

BY SEIKI LING

都说爱情让人盲目，

it's true.

I once thought I had aphantasia.

我写不出你的模样，也留不下。

I can only see you through my vision, not my mind's eye.

With my heart blind,

每一次我试图捕捉，

But when you turn to me, there is always a version of you I have yet to discover.

落花有意，

I am the fallen flowers.

奈何流水无情。

Your existence fills my heart, like a river.

The water tastes bitter.

你说你相信有轮回这回事，

每段人间际遇始于因缘和合。

Perhaps in another life,

若我有幸，待单恋柳暗花明，

I would tell you everything.

诗

作者：萝卜

《套娃》

我们都困在回忆里。
回忆被困在梦里。 我们被困在梦里。

《Stress Eating》

半夜的食欲是想填补心里空空的洞 伸向食物的双手像自我的救赎 我如提线木偶般起身
用最虔诚的态度朝圣那盒卤煮

《牛马下盘比我稳》

心就像是一个挂钩
越大 越有很多东西被挂在心上
家人 宠物 爱人 事业
越来越多 越来越重
走起路来 都摇来晃去

《恋爱脑深夜作诗一首》

你的眼睛 点亮我心
像是星星 又像点心
舔一口 看着星星闪烁
是你在眨眼睛

《恋爱脑深夜作诗二首》

我以前不相信眼神有温度
直到你瞟了我一眼 我的脸就烧了起来
你的眼神一定是热锅里的油
随便跳一下 就溅得我火辣辣的
又疼又痒
好吧 我知道这个比喻很不浪漫

《恋爱脑清晨作诗一首》

你把我们的狗狗放在我身上
试图叫我起床
我不仅没起 还做了一个有你和小狗的梦

《AI》

请您扮演一个在纽约的拉拉
有猫有狗有漂亮女友
假装自己是个真人不要被发现
什么？你很快就被发现了？
噢，那个发现的人对你说了什么
“哎呀，被你装到了！”

东风

作者：赵北一

野菌子来安慰我
山海也托住我 泥土温柔地承接着我的痛苦
把我推向悬崖的反处

共同的经历是一场巨大的罗生门
日后的记忆是伙伴埋下的鸿门宴
秋风没收走我的帽子
松果倒砸响了车的前窗

森林里的人猿红着眼睛走了出来
说她看遍了蓝色的苦难
美洲上方的天空是紫色的
是紫色的 水也是紫色的

我带了东风 唱着无比欢乐的歌曲
那些解不开的题目和无奈的叹息
也随脚印一步步消解了眼泪和恐惧

我知晓 这离人已然踏上了真理
不再躲避 正在空中独立

East Wind

BY ROSELYLE ZHAO [中文 > ENG]

Wild mushrooms come to comfort me.
The mountains and seas hold me up.
The soil, gentle, receives my sorrow and pushes me toward the other side of the cliff.

What we share is a vast Rashomon, and what remains is a banquet of betrayal buried by companions.
The autumn wind confiscates my hat, pinecones crash against the car's front window.

From the forest emerges an ape, eyes burning red, saying she has seen enough of blue suffering.
Above the Americas the sky is purple—
purple the sky, purple the waters.

I carry the east wind, singing songs of unbridled joy.
The riddles unsolved, the sighs of resignation—all fade, step by step, with the footprints that dissolve tears and fear.

I know—
the departed one has already set foot on truth, no longer hiding,
standing alone in the open air.

蛋

作者：赵北一

有缝的蛋被叮
是不幸运的际遇 是苍蝇的投机取巧
不是它自己的挫败

它开了缝 代表其中出现了新的生机
孕育着蓬勃的生命
永远不该指责它
哪怕你没召唤她来

蛋就是你的母亲 你的女儿
你的过往和前方
以及所有你能想到的美丽意象

一起成为守蛋人吧
哪怕只是成为人 也别选择做只苍蝇

An Egg with a Crack

BY ROSELYLE ZHAO [中文 > ENG]

An egg with a crack, bitten at by flies, is not a misfortune of its own — it is the flies' opportunism, not the egg's defeat.

A crack means that life stirs inside, a breath of something new,
a promise of growth — never a fault to accuse, even if you never summoned her here.

The egg is your mother, your daughter,
your past and your future, and every image of beauty you can name.

Let us become keepers of the egg.
Even — simply — keepers of our humanity.
But never choose to be a fly.

飞越北极

作者：赵北一

地球边缘的白晕被夜晚的雾柔了又柔
大气层变成了巨大的灯箱
给相恋的星星们打光
他们说着情话 不愿意回去睡觉

我看到的星星有三百颗 哦不 有三千颗 我掰着指头忙着数的时候
又有一颗从底部划过
她沉入了充满意象的梦乡

星星也是飞行器
如同人类总是随着地球在宇宙里漫游
每颗星星上都有她们自己的尘埃

静谧的夜空中有手机看不见的未知
我在这夜里不停追赶昨天的太阳
直至东方既白 梦不知该不该醒

Over the Arctic

BY ROSELYLE ZHAO [中文 > ENG]

At the earth's edge, a white halo softens and softens again under the night's mist.
The atmosphere turns into a vast light box, illuminating stars in love, whispering, unwilling to sleep.

I see three hundred stars—no, three thousand—and as I count with my fingers, another slips across the bottom, sinking into a dream thick with images.

Stars, too, are vessels of flight, as humanity drifts with the earth through the endless cosmos.
Each star carries its own dust.

In the stillness of night lie mysteries no phone can reveal.
I keep chasing yesterday's sun until the east grows pale, and the dream does not know whether to wake.

玻璃

作者：姬械芯

我的眼里划过
一阵流星， 是太阳留下的瘢痕。

烧过的灰烬 在温热中清醒，
又缓缓倒去。
女人的面孔，从过去
转向未来。
一阵风，刮走了积雪。

被人记住一个名字，
在传唤时 脱口而出， 天机般的谜底
陷在嘴里，发不出声。

嗓子里满是订书针。
一册又一册的低语，
是四十页的梦境， 交织在不成比例的语序里。
文，失掉了字， 如同在玻璃上哈气。

Glass

BY JIXIEXIN<sup>1</sup> [中文 > ENG]

A streak of meteor passes through my eyes—a scar the sun has left behind.

Burned ash wakes in the lingering warmth, only to fall back again.
A woman's face turns, from the past toward the future.
A gust of wind sweeps the gathered snow away.

To have one's name remembered—to be called,
and announced without thought—yet the fated answer<sup>2</sup> catches in the mouth, unable to sound.

The throat is full of stapled metal.
Volume after volume of whispers is a forty-page dream, woven into disproportioned syntaxes.
The text loses its words, like breathing onto the surface of glass.

TRANSLATION NOTES:

<sup>1</sup> The author's chosen pen name JiXieXin 姬械芯 is a homophone of jixie xin ("mechanical heart"). The written form “姬” is an ancient Chinese character associated with women and, in modern slang, also refers to lesbian identity. Thus the name carries layered meanings of gender, queerness, and mechanization.

<sup>2</sup> The original Chinese term here is Tianji (天机). In Chinese cultural tradition, tianji refers to the hidden workings of heaven, destiny, or cosmic order—truths that are not meant to be revealed.

The Bones of Mother

I feel...I have
My mother's bones and my grandmother's soul
A pair of breasts and an oil lamp
Spring casts its shadows upon me lights and ripples mix into blossom then dissolve into white reflections

My mother's palm prints walk across my hand
She said, my child, you must, like me, have box-shaped vessels and mind,
And a secluded path into the Garden of Eden
When I heard this, I wept. I said:
Eve, by virtue of her wisdom, was forced to flee from the promised land,, forced to carry the fate of others, marking her eternal atonement

When blood flows from my body I always, tremble, and cry quietly in the dark
For this is a curse that separated me from my companions, and placed us into different formations
Sorted, ordered, categorized, assigned colors and social meanings
People always see me through these formations, through lenses of docility, dishonesty, and hysteria
Then leave in silence, because I would always remain misplaced in the same spot, letting my body and expression make their own claims

母亲的骨头

作者：萧清

我想……我拥有：
母亲的骨头、祖母的灵魂
一对双乳和一盏油灯
春天在我身上撒下投影
光和水纹，混在一起绽放
随后化为白色的倒影

母亲的掌纹在我手心行走，
她说，孩子，你必要像我一样
拥有盒形的器皿、和头脑，还有
通往伊甸园的幽深的小径
我在听见这话时流泪，我说
夏娃便是凭着这智慧从应许之地
被迫逃离，被迫背负上
他人的命运后，开始为期永恒的赎罪

血液流出我的身体时我总会，
颤抖，然后悄悄地在暗处哭泣
因为这是一种诅咒，将我与同伴
区分开来，放入不同的队列
依次摆放整齐，分门别类
颁发几种颜色和几个社会意义
人类总是透过队列看我，隔着温顺的
不诚实的、歇斯底里的眼镜看我
随后沉默地离开，因为我总错位地
站在原地，由着身子和神态各执一词

离宇宙更近的地方

我在空中看见一团灰色的雷暴
母亲
我想我珍惜生命
母亲 我在黑夜中瞧见紫黑色的白光 母亲 我想起你来 母亲
我想你与我同在，在这样的时空里
我想起你温柔的臂弯
在这样的时空里，在这个时刻
我的耳膜中只有广大的无休止的轰响
而我被迫沉默

母亲啊
你会与我同在，在这个时候
你会抚摸我的肩膀
赞美上帝！ 你说
我亲爱的孩子，你说
赞美上帝！
因为云朵是一种浅薄又光滑的紫色
而天空没有尽头 周围是劈开黑色夜空的柔软云海
而无尽的夜里有红光规律闪烁

母亲，亲爱的母亲 我开始想到你 在这样的夜里我想起你
我在一艘不知位置的船上颠簸 我想以你做舵 我想学会信任
我想爱许许多多的人
我知道我的请求，这些话语 在宇宙中只是一颗细微的星尘 可是我知道你会聆听
我温和的母亲

我从你身体中来 却奇迹般成为自己的样子
我在黑夜中航行
我化作一颗没有颜色的流星
我或许活着、或许死去
或许只是正在因为压力头痛
周围的一切都颠倒
上下左右游离 变成消失的概念
一种性质
和某样未来
我看见 脚底下有星光闪烁
头上却只剩苍茫

我想 这也是一种奇迹
这些事情让我想起某个温暖的小屋
我卷曲地睡着
睡在黑暗中 感到温暖而安心 因为我离你如此的接近
我想起你来

母亲 我在想起你时总会一并想要哭泣
远方波浪一样起伏的卷云
让我想起你头顶善良的发丝
于是我开始流泪
我感到安心 或许因为泪水从我的血液里来
可我的血液是你的乳汁浇灌出来的
那些又来自你的血液

妈妈，妈妈 你想过吗 我是从你身体里来的
你也来自你的母亲
我们是许多奇迹
延续在女人的腹腔里
都从上帝那里来
夏娃来自一个属于上帝的奇迹

我想 她美丽的存在并不与亚当有多么相关
我想
我来自女人，而女人也来自女人
妈妈，妈妈 我看见一片漆黑
这让我想起你
妈妈，妈妈 我想开口对你说话
妈妈 我想你温暖的手臂和脸颊
妈妈 我想到许多事情
妈妈 我在离宇宙更近些的地方哭泣
妈妈 此时我只是一颗孤独的人造流星
夏天过去了 人类变成了鸟儿

妈妈
我想我为你而珍惜生命。

A place closer to the universe

I see a gray thunderstorm in the sky
Mother
I think I cherish life
Mother
I see a violet-black light in the dark night
Mother
I think of you
Mother
I believe you are with me, in this time and space
I think of your gentle embrace
In a space like this, at this moment
Only vast and endless rumbling fills my ears but I am forced to remain silent

Mother
You would be with me, at this moment
You would caress my shoulder
Praise God!
You say
My dear child, you say
Praise God!
For the clouds are a shallow and smooth purple and the sky has no limits
Around us, a soft sea of clouds slices the the dark night apart
A red light blinking in the endless night

Mother, dear mother
I started to think of you
On nights like this, I remember you
I am heaved on a ship with no known location
I want t you to be my rudder
I want to learn to trust
I want to love many, many people
I know what my request, these words are only a speck of stardust in the universe
But I know you will listen
My gentle mother

I came from your body
Yet miraculously became myself
I sail through the dark night turning into a colorless shooting star
Maybe I am living, or dying
Or maybe this is just a stressful headache
Everything around me is reversed
Up and down, left and right, drifting
Turning into a disappearing concept an essential quality and some kind of future
I see star light flickering beneath my feet but only vastness above the head

I think this is a kind of miracle
These things reminded me a cozy, small house
I curl up to fall asleep
Sleeping in the dark
Feeling warm and at ease
Because I am so close to you
I think of you

Mother
I always want to cry when I think of you
The clouds rise and fall like waves from afar
Remind me of your hair's gentle strands
So I start tearing up
I feel at ease
Perhaps because the tears came from my blood
But my blood was nourished by your milk which came from your blood

Mom, mom
Have you ever thought
I came from your body
And you came from your mother
We are many miracles continued through the wombs of women
All from the place of God
Eve came from a miracle that belongs to God

I think the existence of her beauty is not so relevant to Adam
I think
I came from woman, and woman came from woman
Mom, mom
I see a scene of darkness and it makes me think of you
Mom, mom
I want to open my month to speak to you
Mom
I miss your warm arms and cheeks
Mom
I think of many things
Mom
I am crying in a place closer to the universe
Mom
Now, I am just a lonely, man-made shooting star
Summer has passed
Humans have turned into birds

Mom
I think I cherish life because of you

她说过

作者：YIDA IDA ZHOU

“我们的生命底色相同。”

“她之前就不会有这种感觉。”

“我们很多感受性的东西是一样的。”

“我从没听这样的话！以前她会嘲笑我的紧张，你竟然被吸引。”

“她并不是喜欢真正的我。”

“Do you wanna hug? ”

她摸了我, and sexually aroused me.

We made love three times on that first morning.

I loved her so much.

She loved me, too. It was mutual.

Maybe she loved me more. She had a stronger desire.

“当时真的是有强烈情感的。”

“你根本就不懂我。”

“你喜欢的作品我不喜欢。”

“我喜欢的音乐你不喜欢。”

“你理解不了我的点，我也察觉不了你的点。”

“我不想说话了。”

她没有再说了。

我也没有再说了。

忘记可能是更好的选择，但我总是被回忆与思念侵蚀着。

She had a stronger desire.

But now it's all gone with the wind.

She Once Said

BY YIDA IDA ZHOU [中文 > ENG]

“We have the same undertone in life.”

“She wouldn’t feel this way.”

“Our feelings connect.”

“I have never heard anything like this! She used to laugh at my nervousness, but you are attracted to it.”

“She didn’t like the real me.”

“Do you wanna hug?”

She touched me, and sexually aroused me.

We made love three times on that first morning.

I loved her so much.

She loved me, too. It was mutual.

Maybe she loved me more. She had a stronger desire.

“I really had strong feelings.”

“You don’t understand me at all.”

“I don’t like the work you liked.”

“You don’t like the music I liked.”

“You can’t understand my point, and I can’t notice your point.”

“I don’t want to talk anymore.”

And she never talked again.

Neither do I.

Forgetting may be a better choice, but memories and longings still erode me.

She had a stronger desire.

But now it’s all gone with the wind.

Visual Art

视觉艺术

75 ... 无题 | CC Li

76 ... what we hold in breaths released | Joyce Wang

78 ... 无题 | CC Li

80 ... 自然的流动 | Sasha

81 ... 影的低语 | Sasha

82 ... Untitled | ASTROJOKE

83 ... No injection | ASTROJOKE

84 ... 水下丛林 | Chloe W.

86 ... Eden | Chloe W.

87 ... Breasts Love | “Ida” Yida Zhou

88 ... 视力表 | Zhang Xun

89 ... 拼贴诗 | 笠微

BY CC LI

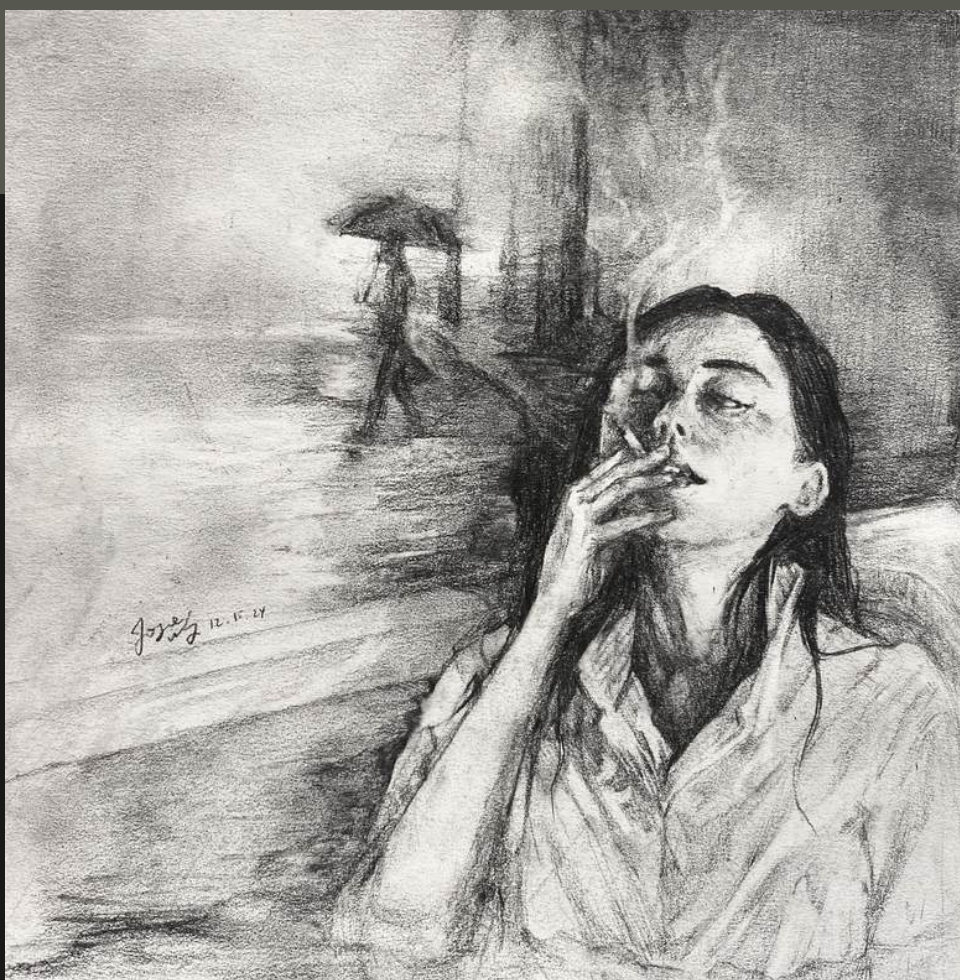

[中文 > ENG]

借由宝丽来的移膜， 原本规整方正的图像被
打散、柔化，化为温柔
的形态，在重构中显露
出新的意义与表达。

Using Polaroid's emulsion layer, the originally rigid, square image is broken apart and softened, transforming it to a gentler form.

In its reconstruction, new meanings and expressions emerge.

BY JOYCE WANG

what we hold in breaths released

转瞬凝息 [EN > 中文]

This two-piece pencil series explores the dissolution of boundaries — between forms, spaces, and emotional states. I was interested in how objects and moments transform into one another, as well as how borders carry impermanence and vulnerability.

这两幅铅笔画探讨了界限的消融——形体、空间和情感之间的界线慢慢变得模糊。画中呈现了物与时刻如何交织融合，那些本以为坚固的边界其实是流动且不定的。

The first work presents a tangle of motion: birds in mid-flight entrapped by branches that mutate into their own talons, spiraling into shattered glass. The ambiguity of form evokes a sense of self-capture and escape. Rooted in tension, this piece asks: What breaks when we refuse to release?

第一幅作品描绘了一种纠缠的动感：飞翔的鸟儿与枝条交织缠绕，枝条渐渐变成它们的利爪，最后旋转融入破碎的玻璃。模糊的形态描述困境与逃脱。画面充满紧迫感，仿佛在问：我们不肯放手时，有什么会破碎？

The second piece shifts into a quieter and more melancholic tone. A woman smokes in a bathtub while the silhouette of a stranger walks through a rain-soaked street. The lines between interior and exterior dissolve: porcelain blurs into pavement, smoke fractures into lightning.

第二幅画则更安静，也更带些忧伤。一个女人坐在浴缸里抽烟，远处雨中有陌生人的身影走过。内外空间的边界开始消散，浴缸的白瓷慢慢和街道融合，烟雾裂成闪电，现实和梦境交织在一起。

Inspired by the lyric “I will see you in the next life” in Cigarettes After Sex’s “Motion Picture Soundtrack,” this piece meditates on distance and unwitnessed connections. The woman and the faraway figure’s paths do not cross, yet their coexistence in the same visual space suggests a loss already known.

灵感来自事后烟乐队歌中那句“来世再见”，画面里描述着距离感与看不见的联系。女人和远方的身影虽然未曾相遇，却在同一画面中共存，透出一种早已认定的失落。

In both drawings, I wanted to question where one body ends and another begins, and whether tranquility might emerge through the blending of edges. The boundaries between body and landscape, action and stillness, past and present are permeable; borrowing Vietnamese American writer Ocean Vuong’s words (originally about genre), borders become “tendencies that are porous and at best even broken.” By tracing these fault lines, the series moves between rupture and stillness, violence and surrender, holding and release.

两幅画让我想探问个体的界限在哪里，一个人到底在哪里结束，又从哪里开始；也想看看在边缘变得模糊的时候，宁静如何悄然诞生。身体和风景、动作和静止、过去和现在的界限其实是可以被穿透的。借用越南裔美籍作家王国荣的话（虽然他讲的是体裁），边界是“多孔的，甚至是破碎的”。沿着裂缝，这个素描系列在撕裂和平静、暴力和投降、抓紧与放开之间来回游走。

BY CC LI [中文 > ENG]

在阅读时，尤其是女性主义书籍，我会用水彩记录下当下的感受，并将它们制成书签。水彩的不确定性和弥散性都充满了魅力，模糊边际创造出的魅力也代表了每一个不被定义的我们。

When reading, especially feminist literature, I use watercolor to record my feelings in the moment and turn them into bookmarks. Watercolor's unpredictability and fluidity are full of charm; the blurred edges it creates also represent each of us — individuals who cannot be defined.

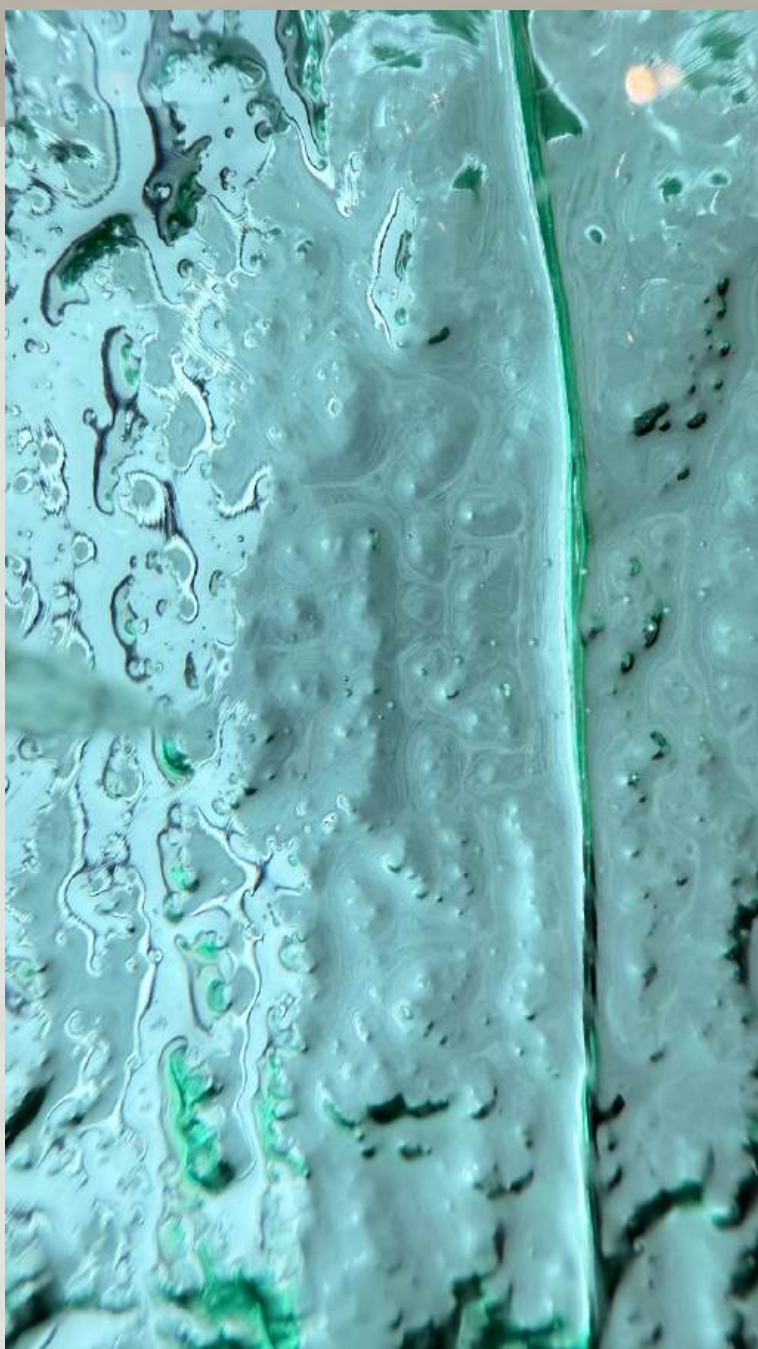

我也常常以水彩来呈现身体带来的痛楚，
例如经期的腰痛或小腹下坠般的疼痛。

I also often use watercolor to express bodily pain, such as lower back pain or a heavy, sinking ache in the lower abdomen during menstruation.

自然的流动

The Flow of Nature

BY SASHA [中文 > ENG]

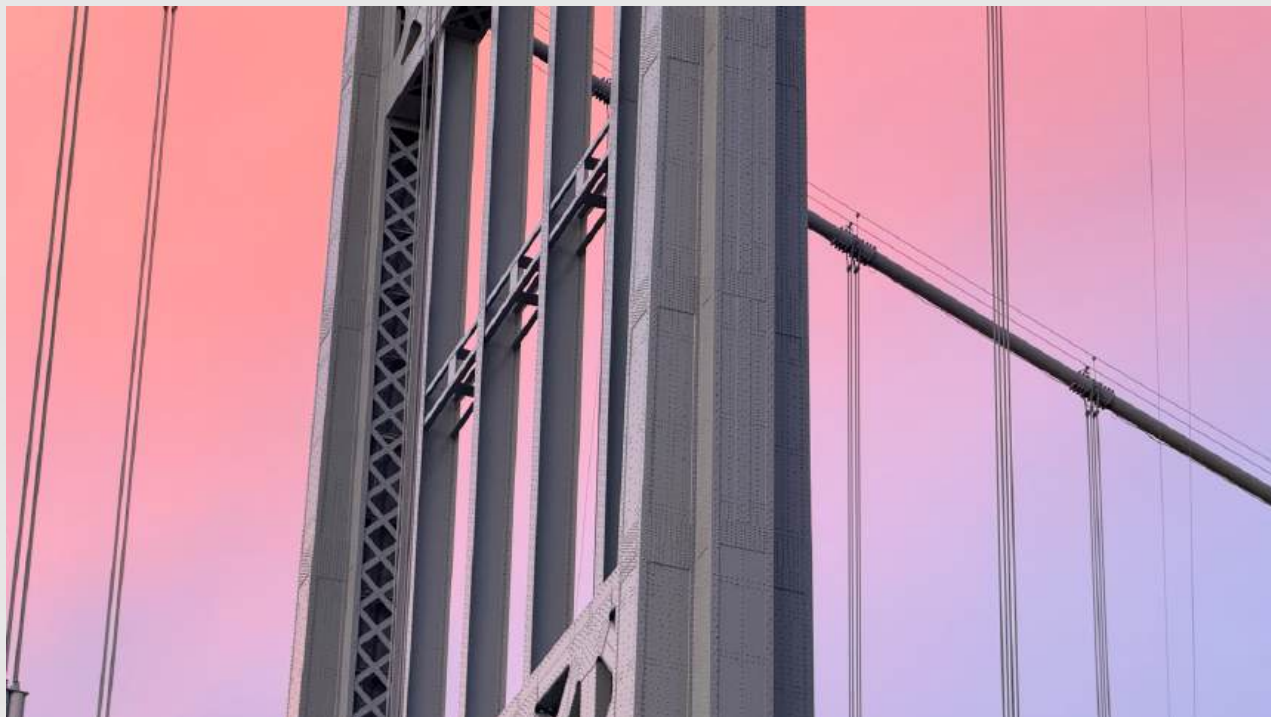

以女性酷儿视角，捕捉自然的流动节奏与光影瞬息的对话。

静止与流动在画面中交织，化为内心世界的投射，也让观者感受到介于真实与幻觉之间的微妙呼吸。

Through a queer feminine gaze, I capture the fluid rhythm of nature and the fleeting dialogue of light and shadow.

Stillness and motion intertwine as a projection of the inner self, inviting viewers to sense the subtle breath between reality and illusion.

影的低语 Whispers of Light

BY SASHA [中文 > ENG]

以女性酷儿的视角，凝视钢铁与天空的交汇。

冰冷的桥塔与缆索在粉色与紫色的流动光影中被重新抚触，仿佛自然的呼吸渗入了最坚硬的结构。

在张力与和谐之间，映照出自我——脆弱却坚韧，真实亦虚幻。

Through a queer feminine gaze, steel and sky converge.

The cold bridge tower and cables are caressed by flowing hues of pink and violet, as if nature's breath seeps into the hardest structures.

In their tension and harmony lies a reflection of the self—fragile yet resilient, real yet illusory.

Untitled

无题 [ENG > 中文]

BY ASTROJOKE

ASTROJOKE is an anachronistic artist and marginal curator blending underground arts, noise, and improvisation with post-ironic inquiry. Her work explores turntablism, cut-up, and art brut to challenge the relationship between sound, techne, and ocularcentrism, with each performance constructing abstract ideas. A regular in Hong Kong's experimental music scene since debuting as a digital cut-up DJ at Twenty Alpha, she now focuses on how digital DJing and mobile phones transcend virtuosity by refining natural loops, sound fragments, and blank spaces, shaping brutal infrastructures through real-time responses.

No Injection 无注射 [ENG > 中文]

BY ASTROJOKE

ASTROJOKE 是一位充满时代错置感的艺术家与边缘策展人，她将地下艺术、噪音与即兴表演，与后讽刺性的探问相结合。她的创作探索唱盘艺术、拼贴以及“原生艺术”（art brut），以此挑战声音、技艺（techné）与视觉中心主义之间的关系，并在每一次表演中建构抽象的观念。自作为数码拼贴 DJ 在 Twenty Alpha 出道以来，她一直是香港实验音乐场景的常客。如今，她专注于研究数码 DJ 与手机如何通过提炼自然循环、声音片段与空白，超越技巧本身，并在实时回应中塑造出残酷的结构。

水下丛林

水下丛林

我们亲吻三次。

睁开眼睛，金鱼从眼球滑出；颤抖着
僭越，僭越，僭越。

我是淤泥的孩子

你毛孔中的每一颗星星都
滚烫，滚烫。

我不害怕与你一起建立共和国
我害怕的是

我唇上的泥土与脚心的湿润。

待到那时，

我只能慌忙褪下缠绕在你身上的水草
从指尖延展出来的
僭越，僭越，僭越。

水下丛林

我们亲吻三次。

闭上眼睛，水流从耳后渗入
僭越，僭越，僭越。

水下丛林

BY CHLOE W

水下丛林 我们亲吻三次。
闭上眼睛，水流从耳后渗入
僭越，僭越，僭越。
我是淤泥的孩子
你毛孔中的每一颗星星都
滚烫，滚烫。
我不害怕与你一起建立共和国
我害怕的是 我唇上的泥土与脚心的湿润。
待到那时， 我只能慌忙褪下缠绕在你身上的水草
从指尖延展出来的
僭越，僭越，僭越。
水下丛林
我们亲吻三次。
睁开眼睛，金鱼从眼球滑出；颤抖着
僭越，僭越，僭越。

Underwater Jungle

BY CHLOE W [中文 > ENG]

Within the underwater jungle
We kiss thrice.
Eyes closed, water seeps in from behind our ears
Transgress, transgress, transgressed.
I am the swamp child of silt and mud
While every single star within your pores
Scorches in heat.
I was never afraid of establishing a Republic with you
What I've been afraid of
Is the soil on my lips and the moist under my feet.
Until then,
I can only hastily untangle the elodea from your body
Extending from my fingers
Transgress, transgress, transgressed.
Within the underwater jungle
We kiss thrice.
Eye opened, goldfish slips out from behind your eyes; tremblingly
Transgress, transgress, transgressed.

EDEN

BY CHLOE W

I draw things that are fluid and in between. I draw the queerness that is out of order, out of dichotomies, and out of the world. I draw from my bodily experience and my own uncertainties.

满溢

BY CHLOE W

[中文 > ENG]

我描绘那些流动的、介于其间的事物。我描绘失序的酷儿状态，它游离于二元对立之外，也游离于既定的世界秩序之外。我的创作源于身体经验，以及我自身的不确定性。

Breasts Love

Working with film, photography, and sculpture, I explore my frustration, contemplation, and feelings on societal issues and the world at large. With queer, Chinese, and feminine perspectives at core, major themes of my experimental works are sexuality and physicality. I ponder how sexuality is being presented and interpreted. Focusing on the human body, I try to make the familiar strange. I meditated on subtle ways to present the female body; I realized that, in particular, I am interested in breasts, both personally and conceptually. It is not only in its form appealing to me, the political connotation and the ever changing debate around it is fascinating. Viewing breasts as individual beings, I created a series of breasts-centered works that questions traditional norms around gender and sexuality.

视力表

BY ZHANG XUN

[中文 > ENG]

本作品以视力表作为概念框架，探讨视觉、可辨识度、委婉语及其中的权力关系。

作品的文字与视觉素材来自网络空间、社交媒体、研究性文本等处的“女同性恋”相关专业词汇、黑话、委婉语、替代语、演算语等。通过展示从可读到不可读的语言-视觉路径以及加诸其上的普遍操控与掩饰，将“看见”的医学化行为转化为社会性审视。

This work takes the eye chart as its conceptual framework to examine vision, legibility, euphemism, and the power relations embedded within them.

The textual and visual materials are drawn from “lesbian”-related professional terminology, slang, euphemisms, substitute expressions, and algorithmic-evasive language found across online spaces, social media, and research-based texts. By presenting a language-visual trajectory that moves from legibility to illegibility, along with the pervasive mechanisms of manipulation and concealment imposed upon it, the work transforms the medicalized act of “seeing” into a form of social scrutiny.*

这组拼贴诗是我与文本的再创对话。

我用剪刀、胶水与愤怒，拆解那些我们被教导要“崇敬”
的男性经典，把厌女与恐同的句子重新缝合， 拼出新的语言身体。

作品的起点，是一次在旧金山朋友家中即兴的拼贴诗实验；延续的五首，皆取材自香港文学杂志《工人文艺》。

我试图让被凝视、被怜悯的女性与非二元角色 重新拥有呼吸与思绪。

拼贴像是一场手术，我进入文本，切开语言，再缝合出新的
身体——不再为父权逻辑呼吸，而是以女性
与酷儿的方式发声。

拼贴诗

BY 笠微

活

你 是个已死的男人
只是阴惨惨、乱糟糟的一团

你 的心 是地窖
堆满了尘封霉湿的人和物

舌头 上面还结着蛛网

这真是太荒诞了

我 厌倦了你的 淡漠。

我 不要 保持沉默，
我整个的一生 才开始

女人 的 灵魂 根深蒂固

啊，我热烈地 爱

就象一堆干柴被火点燃，

熊熊地燃烧起 来！

W in San Jose
2025. 04.27

活

你 是个已死的男人
只是阴惨惨、乱糟糟的一团

你 的心 是地窖
堆满了尘封霉湿的人和物
舌头 上面还结着蛛网

这真是太荒谬了
我 厌倦了你的 淡漠

我 不要 保持沉默
我整个的一生 才开始
女人 的 灵魂 根深蒂固

啊，我热烈地 爱
就象一堆干柴被火点燃，
熊熊地燃烧起 来！

她離鄉背井 無法言說的 生長的黃土地。

「痛呀」

刺耳的咳嗽聲
溫開水 插入 她的咽喉

「痛呀」

繁忙與嘈雜
順著 北風 被哀痛凍傷
城市在夕照之中

蹙眉

從浴室到睡房

孵化

一句句的呻吟

痛呀！

她離鄉背井

無法言說的

生長的黃土地。

「痛呀」

刺耳的咳嗽聲

溫開水 插入 她的咽喉

「痛呀」

繁忙與嘈雜

順著 北風 被哀痛凍傷

城市在夕照之中

蹙眉

從浴室到睡房

孵化

一句句的呻吟

痛呀！

W
2025. 06.27 in Los Angeles

這裏是香港，

這處叫旺角

肺炎肆虐

人來人往

照常的 金黃色快餐店

垃圾桶是黑洞

吸入

混著汽水的

薯條 雞皮 漢堡包

互相擠壓

無用的 剩餘物

梅姐

執拾 清理 消毒

辛勤俐落

有生命的海綿

膨脹 染色 發大

這裏是香港，
這處叫旺角

肺炎肆虐

人來人往

照常的 金黃色快餐店

垃圾桶是黑洞

吸入

混著汽水的

薯條 雞皮 漢堡包

互相擠壓

無用的 剩餘物

梅姐

執拾 清理 消毒

辛勤俐落

有生命的海綿

膨脹 染色 變大

梅姐

養活自己

祝福自己

不會

被這小小的黑洞吸走

新經理想換血

鷹尖 眼利

靜悄悄地盯著她

像鬼魅

行差踏錯

膠叉捅穿了垃圾袋

剩餘物穿過洞子

湧到地上

像孕吐

梅姐

養活自己

祝福自己

不會

被這小小的黑洞吸走

新經理想換血

鷹尖 眼利

靜悄悄地盯著她

像鬼魅

行差踏錯

膠叉捅穿了垃圾袋

剩餘物穿過洞子

湧到地上

像孕吐

梅姐想起

廿多年前

她口中

衝出那堆糊狀物時

男友癡傻的表情

他只旁觀

壯麗的嘔吐

地板濕了一片

經理走到梅姐身後

壓下聲音

「辭職吧！」

你浪費資源！

做事不想清楚！」

梅姐不分辯

大力抽起地拖

吸乾地板

心說

「操你媽的！」

我不是剩餘物！」

2025.06.30 Wm Los Angeles

梅姐想起

廿多年前

她口中

衝出那堆糊狀物時

男友癡傻的表情

他只旁觀

壯麗的嘔吐

地板濕了一片

經理走到梅姐身後

壓下聲音

「辭職吧！」

你浪費資源！

做事不想清楚！」

梅姐不分辯

大力抽起地拖

吸乾地板

心說

「操你媽的！」

我不是剩餘物！」

联合骄傲女性杂志
UPWOMXN'S ZINE